Future Delivery Contracts Legalized by House

GEORGIA TO GAIN COTTON DELIVERY POINT AS RESULT

Atlanta, Augusta and Savannah Are Three Cities Considered, Says Hope Tigner.

GEORGIA FARMERS WILL BE GAINERS

Redwine Bill Provides for Legal Sale of Futures Where Actual Delivery Is Contemplated.

By a vote of 123 to 21 the house of representatives Thursday afternoon passed the Redwine bill which provides for the legal sale of cotton, grain and stocks under contract where actual delivery is contemplated.

The bill already has passed in the senate and now goes to the governor for his signature. It is designed to stabilize the cotton trade in Georgia and will make it possible for Georgia cities to be designated as cotton delivery points by the New York Cotton Exchange.

One amendment was proposed to the bill fixing a scale of license fees on companies dealing in cotton, stocks and grain under contracts for future delivery. The scale ran from $1,000 to $10,000 a year but the amendment was voted down. A substitute also was offered which provided for a reaffirmance of the law of 1906 prohibiting any dealing in cotton for future delivery but this also was voted down.

Delivery Point Assured.

J. Hope Tigner, secretary of the Atlanta Commercial Exchange, Thursday night expressed gratification over passage of the bill in the house and said that adoption of this law undoubtedly would be followed within a very short time by establishment of a cotton delivery point in this state.

Cotton delivery points already have been established, he said, in Charleston, Norfolk and Houston. He stated that the governing board of the New York Cotton Exchange more than one year ago had gone on record as favoring establishment of a delivery point at Savannah as soon as suitable legislation had been passed by this state.

"Atlanta, Savannah and Augusta are the three outstanding cities in this state for establishment of delivery points," he said, "and with this legislation in effect all that would be necessary would be certain negotiations, the outcome of which never would be in doubt."

"This bill, which lacks only the governor's signature to become law, makes legal futures transactions of recognized exchanges—the New York Cotton Exchange, the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, and the Chicago Board of Trade—and clarifies the differences between these exchanges and bucket shops. If the case of the exchanges mentioned actual delivery of the commodity dealt in is contemplated, while in the bucket shops there is no intention or contemplation of delivery. The bill provides a penalty as a felony for deals in bucket shops, which are purely gambling transactions, and nothing else."

Advantages Shown.

"Advantages of establishment of a cotton delivery point in this state are manifest. The price paid for cotton is based on future contracts. Since actual delivery of the product is contemplated it is necessary to add the cost of freight, insurance, handling to place that cotton in New York. With a delivery point in Georgia this extra cost is eliminated. A cotton delivery point in this state would save the farmer from five to seven dollars a bale."

J. Scott Davis, representative from Floyd county, was author of the bill, and is a leader in the house. Mr. Tigner said Mr. Davis has given considerable time and thought to the matter, and was assisted in getting the bill through by the other members of the Floyd delegation and by the Chatham delegation, all of whom worked strenuously in its behalf. He was being fighting to obtain this legislation for several years.

Western Senators Split With G. O. P. Over Tariff Rates

Borah and Brookhart Declare War on Measure; Will Join Democrats To Defeat Bill.

Washington, August 22.—(AP)—Completion of the work of revising the house tariff bill by the senate finance committee republicans was the signal today for another attack on the new measure by the democrats and republican independents.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, said the pledge the republican party had made to remedy tariff inequality could not possibly be carried out by enactment of either the house bill or that prepared by the finance committee majority.

Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, saw no improvement in the rewritten measure and predicted a concerted effort by the democrats and western republicans to incorporate the export debenture in the bill as a means of making effective the proposed levies on exportable crops.

McKellar Condemns Bill.

"Whether you take the house bill or the senate bill," said Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, "it is a general tariff revision and in no sense limited as requested by the president."

The finance committee tariff-framers concluded the rewriting of the measure by adopting a dozen or more minor amendments to the administrative provisions, none of which had to do with the important flexible clause or the procedure of the tariff commission.

A meeting of the full committee to report the measure to the senate was called for the morning of September 4, the day set for the opening of floor debate. The eight democratic members of the committee will meet tomorrow to discuss in detail their plans for the floor contest.

Duty To Change Bill.

"Those who have the interest of agriculture at heart and those who believe that the measure ought to be kept," Borah asserted in his formal statement, "are in duty bound to endeavor to change this bill in the senate."

The special session was called to revise agriculture through a farm bill and the tariff, Borah said, adding that both parties pledged themselves to "do all within their power to restore economic equality to agriculture."

"In order to cinch that proposition in the minds of the voters and give proof of its purpose to act without delay," he continued, "a special session was promised and called by the republican leader."

"My examination of the bill reported by the senate finance committee convinces me that there is very little difference between the two bills insofar as they affect agriculture. If either bill is passed agriculture will suffer the same inequality, the same injustice as we were pledged to remedy."

Vital Pledges Made.

"This inequality is admitted, a campaign was made upon that proposition, a victory was won upon that proposition, and if ever a great party stood face to face with the fulfillment of a plain, simple, well understood, vital pledge, the republican party does at this time."

"The farmer did not seek to have the industrial duties reduced, some of which might well have been attacked. These duties were fixed and established by law, so it was said let them stand, but give us a chance to live under this protective system. Help us to realize a price that we may pay the price which is imposed upon us."

"But when agriculture secured the special session over the reluctance or the objections of those already protected, when his duties began to receive consideration, up goes the duties on the things which he must buy."

"It is all wrong. It is a violation of our pledge and if it is possible to defeat the scheme, it ought to be defeated."

LADY BIRDS REACH TEXAS IN DERBY

Four More Ships Forced Out of Race by Accidents in Landings in Pan-Handle.

Fort Worth, Texas, August 22.—(AP)—Louise McPhetridge Thaden, Pittsburgh, leader in elapsed time in the women's air derby, was the first to cross the finish line at the municipal airport here today. She completed the hop from Abilene at 5:34:14.

Amelia Earhart, Boston, finished second at 5:38:13.

A mammoth crowd that had been at the air field several hours broke through the police lines and surrounded the Lockheed Vega plane, flown by the noted aviatrix, first to span the Atlantic.

Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Cal., crossed the line third at 5:38:30.

Three Come to Grief.

Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., who led two laps of today's long trip from El Paso, was fourth at 5:39:18.

Despite the string of 90-mile flights from El Paso, the entrants made perfect landings on the grass-coated field here. There was no repetition of the series of faulty landings at Pecos, where three of the derbys came to grief today.

Fifth to taxi across the line at this control point was Phoebe Omie, Memphis, Tenn. Leader in the light plane class, she was followed at short intervals by Ruth Elder, Los Angeles, May Haxlip, Kansas City; Mrs. Keith Miller, Australia, and Neva Paris, Great Neck, L. I.

Other entrants landed here in the following order:

Yvonne Dawn Walker, Los Angeles; Thelma Rasche, Germany; Opal Kunz, New York; and Mary Elizabeth Von Mack, Detroit.

Barnes Plane Wrecked.

All but three of the 17 fliers who left El Paso had landed here. Edith Foltz, Portland, Ore., who damaged her landing gear at Pecos, today's first control point, was expected to spend the night at Abilene.

Margaret Perry, Los Angeles, was ill when she reached Abilene and said she would spend the night there. Joining the others here tomorrow.

Florence Lowe Barnes, San Marino, Calif., and Blanche Noyes, Cleveland, were not reported to have left Pecos. Miss Barnes' plane was wrecked when she struck an automobile upon landing. Miss Noyes was forced to land in the sage brush before reaching Pecos and her undergar was smashed. A landing gear was sent her from home by air express.

Upon landing here, Miss Walker reported having seen a plane down near Weatherford and it was at first feared it was one of the derbys. Two local fliers left for Weatherford to investigate.

Standing of the entrants in elapsed time:

Louise McPhetridge Thaden, Pittsburgh, 11:04:30; Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, 11:25:52; Amelia Earhart, Boston, 11:46:52; Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., 11:51:08; May Haxlip, Kansas City, 12:24:06; Ruth Elder, Los Angeles, 13:35:03; Mary Elizabeth Von Mack, Detroit, 15:23:22; Neva Paris, Great Neck, L. I., 15:55:10; Thelma Rasche, Germany, 16:29:31; Opal Kunz, New York, 18:44:27; Yvonne Dawn Walker, Los Angeles, 21:30:15.

(Light Planes)—Phoebe Omie.

Memphis, Tenn., 13:28:20; Mrs. Keith Miller, Australia, 24:36:15.

AUSTRALIAN ENTRANT TELLS OF STORM.

Abilene, Texas, August 22.—(AP)—Caught in a whirlwind at 1,500 feet Mrs. Keith Miller, of Australia, entry in the women's air derby, from Santa Monica to Cleveland, reported one of the most hair-raising experiences of her flying career on today's flight from El Paso to Abilene.

Mrs. Miller said the miniature twister threw her into a "top" spin, turned her over twice in the air and tossed her back on her course half of a mile.

During all of this time she was losing altitude and when she got her bearings she was certain that she would crash. She was too close to the ground to use her parachute and decided to stay in the plane. She finally pulled out of the whirlwind a few hundred feet from the ground, and continued her flight.

ZEPPELIN LEAVES TOKYO FOR U. S. AS STORMS CLEAR

After Two-Day Delay, Skies Clear and Giant Ship Soars Away for Pacific Crossing.

Kasumigaura, Japan, August 23.—(AP)—(Friday)—The globe-circling dirigible Graf Zeppelin, a day and a half behind schedule, took the air for her projected 5,470-mile journey to Los Angeles at 3:13 o'clock this afternoon, (1:13 a. m. Friday, eastern standard time).

BY MILES W. VAUGHN
United News Staff Correspondent.

Tokyo, August 23.—(Friday)—The Graf Zeppelin's departure for Los Angeles was postponed again this morning because of unfavorable winds.

Dr. Hugo Eckener announced the delay after a long and futile wait for winds and rain to abate. Weather conditions will determine the commander's decision as to when another attempt to depart on the 3,050 miles flight across the Pacific ocean will be made.

The rain, which had fallen intermittently and then steadily throughout the night, ceased shortly before 4 a. m., but the winds—blowing at right angles across the hangar doors—freshened. Dr. Eckener announced at 4:30 a. m. (2:30 p. m. eastern standard time) that the departure would be postponed.

Removal Dangerous.

The wind made removal of the big dirigible from its hangar at Kasumigaura airport a difficult task, and it was feared that the craft might be damaged again. The Graf Zeppelin's rear motor gondola was damaged yesterday morning as it was being walked out of the hangar preparatory to departure.

Mechanics worked all day repairing the damage and Dr. Eckener then announced he would be ready to start last night. The passengers were ordered aboard at 8:30 p. m., and the hangar doors were opened later, but weather prevented the departure.

The 20 passengers including three new ones who replaced Japanese who made the flight here from Friedrichshafen were informed that the weather was unsatisfactory for the take-off last night, but that an attempt would be made to depart at dawn today.

Passengers Leave Dirigible.

They left the dirigible and returned by automobiles to Tokio and most of them took advantage of the delay to get more sleep after the extensive entertainment provided here.

Dr. Eckener remained in the dirigible cabin and slept while he waited for the weather to improve. His wait was futile and he announced at dawn that weather observers were unable to say when conditions would improve.

The second delay again was a great disappointment to the crowds which had braved rain at the naval air station to witness the departure and to Dr. Eckener and his crew and passengers, who were hopeful that they would reach Lakehurst—their starting point—in time to set a new record in circumnavigation of the globe.

Heavy rains also were reported along the first part of the dirigible's great circle course to America.

Some conjecture was aroused when the passengers left the dirigible. It was said only 19 had been aboard and the Russian embassy said Professor Kharklin and his ship and was returning to Moscow by railroad.

factious in the senate favoring the state revenue department and the state tax commissioner's office, respectively, as an agency for administration and collection of the income and sales taxes developed when the house passed an appropriations for the two divisions.

Tax Laws Amended.

A composite house bill containing a number of amendments to the general tax laws now in effect was passed practically without opposition at the afternoon session. Provision for a tax on bus companies transporting passengers and freight on regular schedule was passed after a brief debate.

$312,956.65 ADDED TO FINANCE SHEET BY SENATE ACTION

Night Session Is Held But Parliamentary Tangle Blocks Progress; Colleges Given Increases

BY ROBERT H. WILSON.

After spending an entire night session and parts of two afternoon meetings in a session by section discussion of the general appropriations bill, the senate at adjournment late Thursday night had passed on less than half of the state's finance sheet for 1930 and 1931.

With two of three divisions of the bill not yet brought up for discussion, appropriations of $149,956.65 for 1930 and of $163,000 have been approved by the senate in addition to allotments passed by the house of representatives. Progress on the bill at Thursday night's session was rapid until the section on educational institutions was reached when a parliamentary tangle and numerous conflicts of opinion caused the members to postpone further action until this morning.

Senator Charles D. Redwine, chairman of the upper house appropriations committee, pleaded with the senators during the early part of the debate not to add appropriations to the bill as reported out by the committee. He believed that any substantial increase in the finance sheet over the form in which it was passed by the house would result in a tie-up that might not be ironed out before the legislative session expires Saturday night.

Amend W. & A. Lease Bill.

During the morning session the senate defeated the Beaton school book bill, previously passed in the house, refused to concur in the first of three house amendments to the Lankford constitutional income tax bill, and passed the Western and Atlantic lease commission bill, after adding three minor amendments. One amendment to this measure, which creates a commission to negotiate an extension of the lease on the state owned site of the old Union depot in Atlanta, added the name of Governor L. G. Hardman to the personnel of the body, while others were of minor character, merely correcting typographical errors in the original bill.

Provision for the lease under jurisdiction of the lease commission a tract of land facing the Spring street viaduct as a site for the new $2,000,000 post office building, fell through when it was found that the federal government would not accept a lease but insisted on fee simple title to the property.

This development was discovered at a conference in the governor's office and, owing to the impossibility of the state making a fee simple property, was never brought to the floor of the senate.

Members of the commission named in the bill in addition to Governor Hardman, are Judge H. Warner Hill, of the supreme court; C. Murphy Candler, former chairman of the state board of education; Judge W. F. Jenkins, court of appeals; W. D. Anderson, Macon, president of the Bibb Manufacturing Company; C. K. C. Audley, Thomasville, capitalist; Henry T. McIntosh, editor of The Albany Herald; and W. C. Martin, banker of Dalton.

Chief among the appropriation changes approved at the night session were allotments of $25,000 additional to the University of Georgia and of $15,000 to the Georgia School of Technology. An amendment raising the State College of Agriculture allotment to $200,000 from $165,000 was defeated just before the body adjourned.

Continuation of the fight between factious in the senate favoring the state revenue department and the state tax commissioner's office, respectively, as an agency for administration and collection of the income and sales taxes developed when the house passed an appropriations for the two divisions.

A solution was finally reached when the senate adopted a compromise amendment appropriating $25,000 for 1930 and $50,000 for 1931 to the tax commissioner's office for administration of the revenue measures. Five thousand dollars was allowed the commissioner for expenses during the four months the taxes will be in effect during 1929. This action was in accord with an amendment to the sales tax bill, passed Wednesday in the senate, placing collection of the tax under the tax commissioner.

China Calls Out 150,000 Reserves To Face Russians

All Manchuria Under Arms as 40,000 Russians Are Mobilized—Soviets Suffer Defeat.

BY RANDALL GOULD.

United News Staff Correspondent.

Shanghai, August 22.—Chinese authorities moved tonight to prepare the entire strength of Manchuria against military invasion which officials assert is threatened by soviet Russia.

Mobilization of the entire reserve forces of the three northeastern provinces—Heilungkiang, Kirin and Fengtien—was ordered by Chang Hsueh-liang, the youthful war lord of Manchuria and son of the late Chang Tso-lin.

It was estimated that the reserve troops of the provinces will total 120,000 men.

Official advices received at Peking said that 50,000 Manchurian troops moved northward from Mukden towards the border this morning. The troops went by way of Taonanfu, which is to the east of Harbin. The Taonanfu railroad line connects with the Chinese Eastern railroad at Tzitsihar.

Troops Are Moved.

Simultaneously, troops moved from Kirin province via Changchun. It was believed most of the troop movements to the border would be towards the west, where fighting has been in progress near Manchou.

Some of the troops, however, will go eastward to the Pashan-chiang area.

Coincident with the troop movements, Chinese intelligence agents reported concentration of soviet troops near the border. They said soviet forces number between 30,000 and 40,000.

Both Russians and Chinese appeared to be concentrating their largest forces near Manchou according to reliable sources at Peiping.

The movement of troops to the north follows five days which border clashes have grown steadily more serious. The last clash officially reported through Chinese sources said that the soviet troops were repulsed in a virtual victory.

Many casualties have been reported. Chinese authorities have ordered their troops to take only self-defensive measures, but to resist strongly any invasion of Manchurian territory.

There was no indication tonight that any further move has been made to break the deadlock which is preventing the start of negotiations for settlement of the dispute over Chinese expulsion of soviet officials of the Chinese Eastern railroad.

Soviet Troops Repulsed.

The Chinese reports so far have said that the soviet troops were repulsed in a virtual victory.

Services will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg & Co. The body will be shipped tonight to Arden for burial.

McCoy Killing Bares Threat Against Wife

Copy of Letter Written by Husband Relegated to Files.

Copies of a threatening letter alleged to have been sent to his wife by W. T. McCoy six months ago were relegated to the souvenir file of Solicitor-General John A. Boykin Thursday following the burial of Mr. and Mrs. McCoy.

The solicitor's office revealed that Mrs. McCoy, who was slain by her husband Tuesday morning just before McCoy killed himself, appeared at the court house last February and made a complaint against her husband. A bill of indictment was drawn, based on a letter sent by McCoy to his wife, but Mrs. McCoy never reappeared to testify before the grand jury and failed to answer a note from the solicitor's office, so the bill was tossed into a drawer and forgotten until Thursday.

The letter which McCoy is alleged to have mailed his wife was intended for a reconciliation, but contained threats as to what he would do if his wife failed to agree. Among the things McCoy said was: "And I will repeat to you again I am either going home agreeably or I am going to my home prepared for me from a foundation of the world but I know not where, and I will sure take a pal with me if power will burn, and if power fails I will be fully prepared not to get locked up, unless it is in the dead wagon."

Mrs. Leila W. Oglesby, a sister of Mrs. McCoy, Thursday filed a petition with the Fulton ordinary for letters of administration on Mrs. McCoy's estate.

SWIMMER DROWNS IN PIEDMONT LAKE

F. A. Cadieux, 47-Year-Old Machinist, Sinks in Center of Pool—Body Is Recovered.

F. A. Cadieux, 47, a machinist, of 328 Fourteenth street, N. W., was drowned in the Piedmont park lake shortly before 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon when he sank while swimming near the center of the lake in about 25 feet of water. He did not reap and lifeguards who rushed to the spot at which he sank were unable to save him. The body was not recovered until after the lake had been dragged for more than half an hour.

Cadieux came to the pool shortly after 3 o'clock with a relative, Daniel Lee, and had been swimming for some time when the tragedy occurred. He was known as a good swimmer and the dozen or more people who saw him sink were at a loss to assign a reason for the drowning.

He was not known to have suffered from any heart trouble which might have stricken him in the water. Lifeguards were of the opinion that a cramp may have caused him to lose the use of his muscles.

Cadieux was said by relatives to have returned here recently from Rome, where he had been employed for several weeks. He had not been employed since his return from Rome, it was said.

Servicing Cadieux was his wife; one daughter, Miss Beatrice Cadieux; two step-sons, Joseph and David Lee; his mother, Mrs. F. X. Cadieux, Cliftondale, Mass., and a brother, Joseph Cadieux, of Meriden, Conn.

Cadieux was a member of North Atlanta Council Daughters of America, A. F. & A. M. No. 59, J. O. U. A. M. No. 17, L. O. O. F. No. 198, Elks' Lodge of Rebekahs No. 16 and International Association of Mechanics.

Services will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg & Co. The body will be shipped tonight to Arden for burial.

FARMERS STAGE BATTLE TO DEATH ON MAIN STREET

Shot Through Abdomen, Blood-Drenched Man Fires Fatal Charge Into Antagonist.

SECOND PRINCIPAL DIES IN HOSPITAL

Trouble Started When Younger Man, Though Married, "Ran A Way" With Other's Daughter.

BY ELMO HAMBY.

Constitution Staff Reporter.

Clover, Ga., August 22.—Meeting in the center of town by pre-arrangement, two men fought a duel to the death at arms length with shotguns loaded with buckshot here at 4:30 this afternoon.

Pate Huddleston, 53, and Marcus Brown, 42, avenged family honor and insult in the arid smoke of 12-gauge barrels and both are dead tonight.

The duel had all the characteristics of the old frontier gun battle with a sizeable gathering drawn by the impending tragedy, but unable to prevent it.

According to eyewitnesses, Brown fired first, the load of slugs striking Huddleston, who was seated in front of the largest store in the town, in the stomach. Huddleston, mortally wounded, shot from his lap, the full charge taking effect in Brown's chest.

The duel was the culmination of months of enmity between the two men. Brown, who is married and the father of eight children, had killed marked attention to Mrs. Alma Kilgore, divorced daughter of Huddleston, and had just finished serving a sentence of three months on the county chain gang for taking a tour to Alabama with the daughter. He had been warned by Huddleston to desist in his attentions, but had repeated the offense and had returned to Clover only yesterday from a second tour, either to Alabama or North Carolina. No one seemed to know where the pair had gone.

When Huddleston again warned Brown, the latter sent the father of his inamorata a challenge to meet him at the store this afternoon.

The town heard of the challenge and some ten or twelve men had gathered at the store in the hope of preventing the duel when Brown walked up.

Huddleston had already arrived and was seated in front of the store when Brown walked past Huddleston, who had his double-barreled gun in his lap, and entered the store. Huddleston followed him.

Brown stopped in the store and Huddleston went out the back door and around the building and again resumed his seat in the front.

Brown walked out, turned as if to

ALLEGING KNOCKING,
TENN. OFFICER QUILTS

Johnson City, Tenn., August 22.—(P)—Cred Smith resigned his job as deputy sheriff today because "too many people are knocking the officers" and charged that the constabulary "is not pulling together." T. M. Laughran, another deputy, resigned at the same time and said he might make a statement later. The two deputies have been active recently in raids on home brew and whisky manufacturers.

50 ARE ARRESTED
BY DRY OFFICERS
IN CHARLOTTE RAID

Charlotte, N. C., August 22.—(P)—Some 50 or more persons arrested in what federal officers described as a drive to "mop-up" the retailers, faced charges of violation of the prohibition laws while the mopping up process, begun yesterday, continued. J. Ed Kaupie, deputy prohibition administrator, personally directed a series of raids in Charlotte and Mecklenburg county that brought in prisoners faster than records could be filed on them.

The names of 25 held were given out and officers said there were others in jail yet unlisted. While the Charlotte raids were being staged, eastern Carolina enforcement officers operating out of Fayetteville armed themselves with 53 warrants snoring out on evidence collected by undercover men and rounded up a score or more of alleged rum dealers in Robeson county. Other warrants were expected to be served today.

Those arrested were mostly filling station operators, negro bellboys and small farmers.

CREW OF BURNING
GERMAN SHIP SAVED

Dollar Line Rescues 26 Men in Mid-Ocean From Boats.

BY J. H. BENSON,
Captain of Dollar Liner President
Harrison.

S. S. President Harrison, August 22.—(P)—(By Wireless to The Associated Press.)—The steamer Quimistan, bound from Norfolk to Genoa, sprang a leak on August 18 at 5:30 p. m. After fruitless attempt by master and crew to save her they were forced to abandon ship at 3:45 a. m., August 19, when their ship was in a sinking condition in latitude 30.40, north longitude 59.57 west.

They were trying to make for Sable island but encountered strong headwinds and made no headway. They were all in good condition when picked up in latitude 40.56 north, longitude 59.29 west. A fresh northwest wind with a rough sea ran at the time of rescue. All went well. Master and crew are in good condition.

First report that the Quimistan was in difficulty was received yesterday from the freighter Yalza, which said the old banana steamer on her way to be junked was seen afloat and deserted in mid-ocean, a menace to navigation.

As Captain Benson made no mention of fire either in his earlier brief reports of the rescue of the Dollar line or in the above meager detailed dispatch to the Associated Press it was believed that the Quimistan must have caught fire after its crew had taken to the boats and proceeded out of sight, believing that their ship had sunk from the leak that caused them to abandon her.

Portable 'Skeeter' Duster,
ELIMINATION OF MALARIAL TYPE IS 100 PER CENT
Run by Power, Is Developed

Washington, August 22.—(P)—The United States public health service has developed a handy portable power blower of paris green dust for eliminating the malarial mosquito.

The power blower, adaptable for use on motor boats, completes a blanket series of mosquito dusters—hand duster, power blower and airplane hopper—providing coverage for all areas.

Only eight years ago Dr. M. A. Barber, director of the malarial research laboratory, discovered that diluted paris green dust brought death to the anopheline (malarial mosquito). He developed the hand duster. Suitable for areas from rain barrel size or less to an acre, the hand duster protected wet surfaces of dense growth which could not be treated with the customary oil. In five years the use of paris green dust had spread throughout the malarial sections of the world, and demand for a more capacious duster rose.

Develop Hopper. In 1926 and 1927 Surgeon L. L. Williams, of the public health service, and Lieutenant Commander S. S. Cook, of the navy, developed the airplane hopper. From a plane they dusted the dense growth of Quantico bay and Choptank swamp with excellent results, proving the airplane adequate for mosquito control of 100 acres or more.

The new device, used on a skiff-type boat with outboard motor, has proven 100 per cent destructive within 450 feet of the point of liberation of a nozzle projecting 45 cubic feet of dust-laden air per minute. It protects areas from 1 to 100 acres.

The public health service makes no effort to patent its inventions but develops them for the common welfare. At Reelfoot lake, in northwestern Tennessee, J. A. Le Prince, senior sanitary engineer, widely known as an authority on mosquito control, and H. A. Johnson, technical assistant, made the tests.

Difficult Conditions. An earthquake formation with thousands of submerged stumps, result of a decaying forest, this lake appeared to offer the most difficult conditions possible for the experiment. It was a proven prolific malarial-breeder. Its surface was so covered with moss, duckweed, lilies and sawgrass that areas looked "like a well-kept lawn."

The first experiments with an air-propelled boat on the vegetation-covered water proved unfeasible because of operating expense. The health service experts then staked the lake into 50-foot and 100-foot squares, cutting paths through the water vegetation to enable an outboard motorboat to proceed under its own power.

To make doubly sure of their results they let down six-inch wooden cages loaded with mosquito larva, as well as dusting those native to the place, and swimming free. When the scientists had dusted they counted their dead. At a total cost of 10 1-2 cents to 15 cents an acre they made a 100 per cent killing of all mosquitos within 450 feet of their power blower, described as "simple of construction, easily moved from boat to boat, capable of operation by one man."

MAN, WOMAN, 60,
ARE TAKEN IN DRUG
RAID AT SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., August 22.—(P)—Two people, one a man and the other a woman nearing old age, were under arrest here today on charges of violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act because an informer for federal agents paid for morphine with marked money.

Clayton McDuffie, 32, and Mrs. E. McDuffie, 40, were arrested last night in a raid on their home. The agents said they found a small vial containing narcotics on McDuffie's person, along with five one-dollar bills which had been recorded and used by the informer in purchasing drugs.

McDuffie attempted to escape by fleeing out a back door of his home, but officers stationed in the back yard caught him.

After being arrested he took from his pocket a matchbox and succeeded in swallowing a portion of narcotics it contained, the officers said. Effect of the drugs was said to be still apparent this morning and McDuffie was held in prison, described as too dazed to attend a preliminary hearing.

The hearing has been set for tomorrow before a United States commissioner.

Savannah police co-operated with the federal agents in the arrests, which followed several months of investigation.

Search of the McDuffie home was said to have disclosed a jar wrapped in old clothing which contained 200 blocks of morphine.

Motor Trouble Forces
Vivian G. To Quit
In Mississippi Race

Baton Rouge, La., August 22.—(P)—The Vivian G., Baton Rouge entry, abandoned the race on the Mississippi above Natchez, Miss., today, due to continued motor trouble.

This left the Baby Lee, of St. Louis, alone in an attempt to break the speed record of 87 hours and 31 minutes set by Dr. Louis Leroy, of Memphis, in the Bogie.

The wives of the crew, S. J. Gianelloni, Jr., and B. E. Spencer, left here today by automobile for Natchez to tow the boat back on a trailer.

The Baby Lee stopped at Delta Point, La., across the Mississippi river from Vicksburg, this morning Tuesday morning at 5:14 and the Baby Lee Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock.

Letter to L. L.
Wallis.

Commendation of the contribution the Atlanta playground system has made this year toward safety of children during the summer is contained in a letter from E. Stevens, president of the Atlanta Safety Council, to L. L. Wallis, general manager of parties.

At the same time Mrs. Chester Johnson, supervisor of the city's 34 play centers, announced the schedule for championship athletic game honors to be staged Saturday as one of the outstanding features of the official closing of vacation recreation season in Atlanta.

Winners in the event will be guests of the Capitol theater, along with directors of the playgrounds at 11 o'clock Monday morning through courtesy of Lionel Keene, southern district manager for Loew's.

The schedule follows:
Senior baseball: Hemphill vs. Grant Park.

Junior baseball: Hemphill vs. Mosley park.

Dodge ball: Hemphill vs. Bessie Branham park.

Volley ball: Brown vs. Crew street. Mr. Stevens' letter to Mr. Wallis, which points out that for the first time in six years there has been no death of a school child due to traffic and no serious accident on the playgrounds, follows:

"Dear Mr. Wallis: At the weekly meeting of the Atlanta Safety Council, held at the Ansley hotel at noon today, Mr. W. N. Gallaher, chairman of our playground safety committee, presented his report, which showed a greatly increased attendance at the playgrounds this year and also brought out the fact that there has not been a single serious accident on the grounds this year. Our records show also that for the first time in six years not a single child was killed by an automobile during the summer.

"The council went on record as thanking you and your department for this very noteworthy accomplishment. We appreciate your efforts both in keeping the children away from the danger of the street and in preventing injury to them on the playgrounds.

"Yours very sincerely,

Boykin Income Tax Measure Signed by Gov. Hardman; Becomes Effective October 1

One-Third of Amount of Federal Income Taxes Must Be Paid Into State Treasury.

The Boykin statutory income tax bill became a law Thursday when Governor L. G. Hardman signed the measure. It was passed in the house, passed by the senate with one amendment and with the acceptance of this amendment by the house, the measure was placed on the governor's desk. The amendment exempted insurance companies on the ground that they are taxed in other specific ways.

The bill provides that all persons, firms and corporations in Georgia that pay federal income tax shall pay the state one-third of the amount paid to the federal government. Each taxpayer is required to furnish the state tax commissioner with a duplicate of his return to the federal internal revenue collector and to send to the state a check for one-third of the amount paid to the federal government. It is expected that the bill will bring in a revenue of between $5,000,000 and $8,000,000 annually. It is effective October 1, 1929.

Following is the text of the bill: A bill to be entitled an act to provide for levying and collecting a tax on income in this state, to provide for the turns shall be made, how the tax shall be paid, and to fix penalties for violation hereof, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the general assembly of Georgia and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same as follows: Section 1. On the net income of every person, firm or corporation residing or doing business in this state, except insurance companies which pay the state tax upon premium income, after making such deductions as are allowed by the laws of the United States in the system and rules adopted for determining net incomes, and such increases and deductions as are hereinafter provided for in determining a proper taxable income, there shall be levied and collected by the state of Georgia an income tax similar to that of the United States, but at the rate and according to the scale hereinafter set forth, the same to be returned, calculated, ascertained and paid, according to the system and rules hereinafter set forth.

Section 2. Where any person, firm or corporation residing or doing business in this state makes an income tax return to the United States, or is legally bound so to do, such person being hereinafter briefly referred to for convenience as a taxpayer, it shall be his duty to make at the same time a like return to the state of Georgia and file the same with the state tax commissioner for the purpose of a state tax on income. Such duplicate return shall furnish the same information as is contained in the return to the United States, and shall be made on a blank form to be furnished by the tax commissioner, and shall ascertain the taxable net income in the same way as in the return to the United States; but before receiving the net income taxable by the state the following changes shall be made:

1. To the amount ascertained under the laws of the United States as the net income taxable by the United States, there shall be added in said return the gross amount of any salary received by the taxpayer during said period as a public official or employee of the state, or of any municipal corporation or other political division thereof, and the net amount of any fees, perquisites or other emoluments from said sources or any of them, paid to him during the same period for official constitution, except in the cases of the governor of the state and of the several judges of the supreme court, the court of appeals and the superior court, who shall not be required to include their salaries paid according for any term existing at the time of the passage of this act.

2. From the amount so ascertained as the taxable net income shall be deducted any salary paid to the taxpayer by the United States or accrued to him from the same source as official salary for any term rendered by him to the United States, and any bond or interest paid to him on any bond or bonds or other obligation of the United States.

If neither of the changes indicated by sub-paragraphs 1 and 2 above is made, the net income taxable by the state of Georgia shall be the same as that taxable by the United States, and the tax payable thereon to the state of Georgia shall be one-third of that payable to the United States. But in case the net taxable income of the taxpayer is increased or reduced as to the state of Georgia as indicated by sub-paragraphs 1 and 2 above, the tax payable to the state shall be increased or reduced so as to be one-third of what would have been payable to the United States under their laws upon such increased or reduced taxable net income.

Section 3. Any person, firm or corporation who makes no income tax return to the United States because of the same being exempted from the United States laws of the United States, but who would have such sufficient income if his salary fees or perquisites from the state or United States of Georgia were taxable by the United States, shall be liable and is hereby bound to make to the state of Georgia an original return on the same or similar form as would be used in making a duplicate return as required in Section 2 of this act, indicating in some appropriate way whether the same is an original return. In such case the tax liability for the state shall be one-third of what it would be to the United States if said income were by them taxable. In any case where an original return has been made to the state of Georgia in some other state, such corporation shall make an original return to the tax commissioner of Georgia to its business done in this state upon like principles as are in this section above provided.

Section 4. It shall be the right of any taxpayer making return of income for taxation by the state to attach to such return any claim such taxpayer may choose to make as to any loss or losses included in his return to the United States which he conceives to be exempt from taxation by the state of Georgia. In such case it shall be the duty of the taxpayer so making return to make a clear and distinct statement of all relevant facts connected with such claim, and to make a clear statement of the reasons why he conceives such loss to be not taxable by the state. And there shall be no deduction any amount from the taxable income of any such person or corporation as the state of Georgia is prohibited from taxing under the constitution of the United States.

Section 5. When such return is made and filed with the tax commissioner as hereinafter required, the taxpayer shall, on or before the last day for making return, pay to the tax commissioner for the state of Georgia at least one-third of the state income tax as fixed by the provisions hereinafter made, the balance being due and payable at intervals of three and six months thereafter.

Section 6. The right granted the taxpayer in Section 4 of this act to file a claim of exemption or denial of liability for tax, shall not be construed to relieve the taxpayer from liability to make immediate payment of the tax, nor shall there be any judicial interference with the payment or collection of the tax upon any other ground, but all persons making return as herein provided for, or required so to do, shall pay as hereinafter provided, and make his complaint for a refund as hereinafter provided for.

Section 7. A tribunal is hereby created consisting of the comptroller general, the attorney-general and the secretary of state which shall know as the board of income tax review. Whenever any taxpayer shall make a claim for exemption as to any item or items in his return as provided in Section 4 of this act, the claim shall be by the tax commissioner referred to said board.

In all returns the taxpayer shall be required to give and shall give his postoffice address. Upon receiving such reference the board shall by letter duly stamped and deposited in the mails give notice to the taxpayer of the time and place where such claim will be heard and passed on. Said board may in its discretion also cause said notice to be served on the taxpayer by any sheriff or deputy sheriff of this state.

If the board has any reason to apprehend that the notice was not received it shall cause the same to be so served before proceeding. The matter shall be heard at the time and place stated in the notice, unless notified by the board to another time or place, or unless the number of such notices is heard, or other good cause, makes it necessary to continue from day to day.

At the hearing the board shall summarily question and pass on the claimed exemption and either allow it or disallow it according as in its judgment the same as or is not as required by the constitution or laws of this state or of the United States.

Section 8. The taxpayer, for himself, or the tax commissioner for the state, shall, if dissatisfied with the finding, have the right to demand an appeal to the superior court of Fulton county. Said demand shall be in writing and shall be made within 10 days, but no bond shall be required as a condition thereon. No notice shall be necessary on the part of the appellant but in either event the appellee shall take notice of the appeal at his own peril.

Section 9. In the superior court the cause resulting from such appeal shall be summarily heard in preference to all other matters and without regard to term of court. A jury may be called, if necessary to pass on any question of fact, and the court shall have authority, if necessary, to have an issue made up in writing. From the judgment of the superior court a writ of error shall lie as in all other civil cases.

Section 10. Any taxpayer making return and making payment, either in whole or in part, shall have the right, at the time of said payment, to file with the person to whom payment is made, a protest in writing, and if thereafter there be a judicial finding in his favor exempting him in whole or in part from liability, it shall be the duty of the treasurer of this state to repay to such taxpayer, with interest at 7 per cent per annum, any sum improperly required of him which payment shall be made out of the fund now to be provided for.

Section 11. As said income taxes are paid into the treasury, such percentage thereof not exceeding 10 per cent as shall be deemed prudent and necessary by the board of income tax review, shall be set aside by the treasurer as a special fund for the reimbursement of taxpayers improperly required to pay, and said treasurer shall have authority, whenever a liability is established for reimbursement in favor of a taxpayer, to repay out of said fund without other appropriation therefor to that purpose that as contained herein.

Section 12. The first return for taxes under this act shall be made each year on or before the 15th day of March for the preceding calendar year, but the liability of taxpayers thereunder for the year 1929 shall only be assessed pro rata for one-fourth of the year.

Section 13. The tax commissioner shall have authority and it shall be his duty to provide all necessary blanks for carrying out the provisions of this act, provided the same are not in conflict with the provisions of this act and do not affect any substantive legal right of the taxpayer resulting therefrom.

Section 14. The tax commissioner shall have power and authority to make all necessary regulations for carrying out the provisions of this act, provided the same are not in conflict with the provisions of this act and do not affect any substantive legal right of the taxpayer resulting therefrom.

Section 15. ## ALLEGED BANK ROBBER REMOVED TO HOSPITAL

Thomasville Dentist Appears Abnormal in Cell, Doctors Say.

Thomasville, Ga., August 22.—(AP)—Dr. E. J. Murphy, Thomasville dentist, arrested in a swamp near here last night and charged with robbing the Bank of Ochokeechnee on Tuesday of $1,202, was removed from jail to a hospital for observation late today.

Physicians said that his condition was not serious, but that he appeared to be mentally abnormal and they desired to make an examination.

Miss Esther Cardin, assistant cashier of the bank, who was held up by a masked bandit, went to the jail today, but the dentist declined to face her for possible identification. Dr. Murphy told authorities that he was attacked by a man he picked up in his car on the day of the robbery and thrown out of the machine. His wife has identified an abandoned car used by the bandit as that of her husband's and said that he left home early Tuesday with the intention of "getting some money or taking his life."

Possemen recovered $1,111 of the stolen money from a bundle of clothing which dogs found near the car said to be owned by Murphy.

Executives of Chronicle Testify in Suit of Hall For Control of Paper

Counsel for Hall Attempts To Show Paper Was Controlled Equally by William Lavarre and Client.

Macon, Ga., August 22.—(AP)—Executives of the Chronicle, William Lavarre and Harold Hall, after their purchase of the Augusta Chronicle were called to testify in United States district court here today in Hall's suit seeking operating control of the paper and three newspapers in South Carolina, after counsel had agreed that action at the present hearing would not be final.

Witnesses were called to testify after Lavarre's answer to the original suit brought by Hall and to contempt proceedings instituted in Richmond county (Georgia) superior court had been filed with the court.

J. R. Webb, circulation director for the four papers; J. C. McAuliffe, an associate editor of the Chronicle, and Jack B. Wise, employed as advertising director, were employees called by counsel for Hall. Questioning sought to show that Hall and Lavarre acted on equal footing in dealing with them.

Webb, the first witness called, testified that he was employed by Hall and Lavarre jointly, each signing the contract, as advertising director of the Augusta Chronicle and any other papers they might acquire at a salary of $10,000 per year. Webb's contract was entered as evidence.

Hall, Webb said, kept in active touch with the Chronicle by correspondence from New York and maintained a residence in Augusta until the disagreement resulting in the suit developed. He was asked by attorneys if Hall objected to publishing a complete report of the testimony before the federal trade commission in investigating activity of power companies in the financing of newspapers, but replied he did not recall. He also could not recall if reports of the hearing had been "altered" at the direction of Lavarre.

Disagreement.
Attorneys for Hall questioned Wise along the same lines and established that his contract was similar to that of Webb and was signed by both Hall and Lavarre.

Wise told of the disagreement between Hall and Lavarre and quoted Lavarre as telling him "Hall is out of the picture." On cross-examination he said he could not recall if those were the words of Lavarre or his own, but said that was the gist of the remark.

On cross-examination by Lavarre's attorneys, Wise was asked about a director's meeting which he testified he attended and that he was made a member of the board. This he said was the only meeting he knew of and that Hall and Lavarre acted on equal footing at that time. Wise could not recall hearing Lavarre make a statement that he owned all the stock in the papers.

McAuliffe said when the two men purchased the paper he went to them and offered to resign, but that "simultaneously" they asked him to remain and at a meeting of the board of directors he was elected to the position he formerly held under previous ownership and also was made secretary of the Chronicle Publishing Company. Minutes and old stock of the publishing company were turned over to him, he said, and later Lavarre took them to the bank where they were placed in a safe deposit vault.

Lavarre on leaving for Columbia, S. C., a few days later instructed him to make out all the certificates to him. McAuliffe testified, but that this was not done until Lavarre returned, when he accompanied him to the bank for this purpose.

Hall came in "very much excited" and asked, "What are you doing?" McAuliffe said, and he referred him to Lavarre, and then informed him that the stock certificates were being made in Lavarre's name. Hall protested but the certificates were made to Lavarre, he said. He also said the minute books were in Lavarre's possession.

Answers Suit.
Lavarre's answer to Hall's original suit, which was filed in Richmond county superior court and later transferred to the federal courts, denied that Hall was a party to the negotiations leading to the loan of $50,000 by the International Paper Company which the four papers were purchased, but said he had asked him to assist with the papers for which he was to receive remuneration equal to that he received at that time and an interest in the papers.

The answer also charged that Hall abandoned the Chronicle on May 27, and contended that Hall is not the type newspaper executive he claims to be. The answer also charged that Hall was relieved as business manager of the New York Telegram.

In explaining the financing of the papers Lavarre said the money was borrowed from the paper company on notes extending over a period of two years at 10 per cent, but on the eve of the federal trade and Massachusetts trade commission investigations, a representative of the paper company told him 10 per cent was illegal in New York state and suggested that he make new notes bearing 6 per cent interest with the stock of the paper as collateral.

This he said he agreed to do, but claimed the power company refused to put in writing a verbal agreement of its representative that the last note would be extended two years.

Hall filed the suit seeking operating control in Richmond superior court and asked a receivership for the Chronicle and injunction to restrain stockholders from meeting, alleging that they sought to vote him out of the control he was to have under a partnership agreement with Lavarre. The injunction was granted and a temporary receiver for the stock and assets of the Chronicle, the Columbia (S. C.) Record, the Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald and the Spartanburg Journal. Lavarre has a motion to dissolve the receivership and injunction pending before the court now.

KENTUCKY GIRL TEACHER RECITES
STORY OF ATTACK

Monticello, Ky., August 22.—(AP)—A girl school teacher on the stand today told her story of how Blufford Abbott threatened her life and attacked her at Slickford county school, and, after the state had closed, Abbott in his own defense simply said he was drunk that day and knows nothing about what happened.

The young teacher's testimony was corroborated by two of her pupils, who told the jury that, hiding in the bushes, they saw the attack and saw Roscoe and Ted Abbott, cousins of the defendant, laughing at the teacher's struggles.

The teacher said that the Abbotts came to the school at recess last July, asked for water and then followed her into the room as recess was over. She said Blufford had been drinking. The pupils fled and Abbott pursued her and threatened to kill her with a knife if she cried out. When she cried for help, she said, he struck her in the face and cut her with the knife.

She was asked only a few questions on cross-examination and then, after the two pupils had testified, the commonwealth closed, and Abbott went on the stand. His account was brief. He was drunk and remembered nothing. Roscoe and Ted Abbott are under indictment in the same case, and their trials are to follow.

Girl Near Death As Police Push Probe of Shooting

Brunswick, Ga., August 22.—(AP)—Solicitor-General W. B. Gibbs today began an investigation of the shooting of Miss Ottilee Virginia Johns, pretty 20-year-old stenographer, who since being wounded has contracted pneumonia and physicians give her scant chance to recover.

Marvin C. L. Johnson, 20, her sweetheart, is held in the Glynn county jail without bond pending the outcome of her injuries, despite the fact that both the girl and Johnson have declared the shooting was accidental. Miss Johns lapsed into unconsciousness today and Solicitor Gibbs was denied admittance to her room.

Johnson was arrested yesterday and formally charged with assault to murder in a warrant sworn out by Austin Johns, father of the girl.

The youth in a statement to police declared the girl was shot shortly after midnight Tuesday as they struggled for possession of a pistol during a quarrel in his parked automobile six miles from town. The girl was taken to the hospital several hours later.

In her statement she told police the shooting was accidental and occurred between 4 and 5 o'clock that morning. She said the gun was accidentally discharged, but also told of the quarrel. Police advanced the theory that the youth shot the girl after the quarrel because of her avowal to "break" their engagement to be married. Johnson, police said, declared he was intensely jealous of Miss Johns.

Farm Loan Plan for Cotton Co-operatives Is Studied At Federal Board Session

Further Inquiry Made Into Florida Citrus Fruit Situation by Body.

Washington, August 22.—(AP)—The federal farm board considered methods today by which a loan will be made to cotton co-operatives, inquired further into the Florida citrus fruit situation and arranged to send some of its members to Chicago Monday to help organize the Farmers National Grain Corporation.

In preparation for making a large loan to cotton marketing agencies, the board held a joint meeting with the federal farm loan board and the presidents of the intermediate credit banks. These institutions will advance co-operatives 65 per cent of this year's cotton crop, the board will loan an additional 25 per cent and the co-operatives themselves will make up the remaining 10 per cent so as to give growers the full amount of the crop value when in need of the funds.

The meeting was the first of a series to be held with these officials. Pending a final decision, board members declined to comment on the nature of the details which they are attempting to perfect.

Receives Fletcher Petition. Earlier in the day the board received a petition from Senator Fletcher, of Florida, for an investigation of the manner in which the Florida citrus growers could be organized to make them eligible for loans. The board already has given the Florida growers to understand that financial aid will be forthcoming as soon as a greater unity is reached among the co-operatives handling the citrus products.

Five members of the board will attend a meeting of the Farmers National Grain Corporation's organization commission in Chicago Monday. They are Chairman Legge and Commissioners Stone, Dennan, Williams and Schilling. The organization committee includes representatives of the principal wheat pools and co-operatives who have been attempting to frame a working charter for the proposed $20,000,000 concern intended to stabilize the marketing of wheat and coarse grains. Far from Desired End. In his request for an investigation of conditions in Florida, Senator Fletcher said that notwithstanding all efforts to advance a co-operative marketing program among citrus growers, "it seems far from the desired end."

"We are aware," the senator said, "that the federal farm board is looking toward stabilization of agricultural production when co-operatives are organized. But the helpless among the citrus producers ask for the needed investigation to tell us what is wrong with our whole scheme of things."

"In theory, we have carried out what we were told to do in practice, the producer is at the mercy of forces so far greater than himself that he and we ask for a searching investigation along these lines."

2 Local Families Air Matrimonial Tangles in Court

The matrimonial troubles of two families Thursday were presented to Fulton superior court for the judges to untangle. Mrs. Ennis Louise Rogers, of 431 Boulevard, N. E., sued her husband John Felton Rogers, locomotive engineer, for a divorce. Lucile Arnold filed an alimony suit against her husband, Claude C. Arnold, money broker. The third development was the alienation of affection suit filed by Rogers against Arnold.

Arnold appeared at the sheriff's office Thursday and posted a $500 bond on a writ of habeas corpus to leave the state. Mrs. Rogers asked the court to issue a ne exeat writ for her husband, and to restrain Rogers from coming to the state. Judge E. D. Thomas issued a temporary restraining order on Mrs. Rogers' petition. Mrs. Rogers charges her husband with desertion.

In the alienation of affection suit Rogers alleges that his wife refused to go to Sanford, Fla., where he now makes his headquarters, that he and police officers caught Arnold in Mrs. Rogers' home, and that Arnold was fined by the police recorder on a disorderly conduct charge. Rogers is represented by Poole and Fraser, Mrs. Rogers by John F. Echols and Mrs. Arnold by Grant and Long.

Crops have been ruined and the extreme misery of the population increased just at a time when they were preparing for the harvest season, which would mitigate their sufferings through a prolonged period of famine. The news of the situation came from the Roman Catholic mission at Tsaochow.

FIVE DROWNED American Tourists' Car Bumped Into Canal.

Montreal, Que., August 22.—(United News)—Five American tourists were drowned this afternoon when their automobile collided with another car and was thrown into the Soulange canal, near Cascade Point. The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Chudde and Elizabeth Chudde, of West Chester, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dale, of Cochraneville, Pa.

The car was proceeding towards Montreal along the canal bank when one of its front wheels struck the rear wheel of a car going in the opposite direction, driven by Jacob Clepaner, of Pittsburgh. The impact caused the rear car to swerve to one side, and it plunged over the bank into the water.

The car was a closed one and none of the occupants came to the surface, although efforts were made to save them. The car finally was brought to the surface and the bodies were found imprisoned in it.

Harry O. Mitchell, local district manager of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, has announced that an aeronautics trade division of the bureau has been established in response to numerous calls for information concerning the sale of aircraft and accessories abroad. Mr. Mitchell stated that the new division would maintain close contact with the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce and that statistics on foreign aircraft and airports would be reported frequently to Washington by American consuls and commercial attaches and disseminated through the district offices.

The Atlanta-Miami air mail route, operated by Pitcairn Aviation Inc., is included in a list of airways which are being surveyed by the department of commerce. The department announced that experts are mapping routes, selecting landing fields and sites for beacons and emergency landing fields near cities along the route. Among the other five which now are being surveyed are the routes from Brownsville, Texas, to New Orleans and from Fort Worth to Brownsville, both operated by Texas Air Transport Inc. Approximately 2,000 miles of airways under construction are nearing completion, the department stated, a portion of which is the Atlanta-Chicago air mail route of Interstate Airlines Inc.

The department of commerce reports that already this year more than 8,000,000 miles have been flown by commercial aviators, compared with the total of about 9,000,000 for the whole of 1928, and about 5,500,000 for 1927. On August 1, the department reported, there were 8,569 licensed pilots in the United States, 70 of them being women. Of the latter, seven held transport licenses and 11 limited commercial licenses. The latest information at the department shows 12,224 privately owned and commercial planes in the United States.

New regulations to protect the flying public against what are termed "incompetent aviators" will be put into effect September 1 by the department of commerce. Clarence M. Young, the new assistant secretary for aeronautics, announced Thursday that the new regulations will permit a transport pilot to carry passengers only in the type of plane in which he has taken his transport examination. "Existing regulations which were promulgated in 1925," Mr. Young stated, "authorized pilots holding the government's transport license to operate any type of size of aircraft. Consequently, it was possible for an aviator to obtain full authorization to pilot any type of licensed airplane by demonstrating his competency in flying a single type, for at that time commercial airplanes were much more similar in type. At the present time, it is obvious that the pilot who has had experience flying only a small single-engine open-cockpit plane is not necessarily qualified to operate a 15,000-pound tri-motored cabin type transport plane.

Spectators marveled at Pitcairn field, Philadelphia, Thursday, when the new Pitcairn Autogiro, being put through its first public exhibition, dropped from the skies in an almost vertical position and landed on the turf as gently as a feather floating to earth. The new ship, which was designed by Juan de la Cierva, the Spanish inventor, was put through a series of successful test flights, the motor being cut at various altitudes from 500 to 100 feet. In each case the plane came down almost vertically within a few feet of the point from which it started, indicating the ability of the craft to land safely if the motor should suddenly go dead soon after the take-off. The safety feature is provided by the auto-giro attachment consisting of four large propeller-like blades placed over the cockpit and a specially designed empennage embodying two horizontal stabilizers. The new planes soon are to be put in production by the Pitcairn Aircraft Company.

TRIAL OF CHICAGO LAWYER IN MADRID THEFT CONTINUED

Madrid, August 22.—(AP)—A special session has been held during the recesses of the Madrid court to decide whether to hold a trial or to stay proceedings against Backer J. Dee, Chicago lawyer, for the alleged theft of an antique plaque from Escorial palace, and today it was announced that proceedings will be continued. The date of the trial has not been decided upon, but it is expected to be held in September.

Appraisers have valued the plaque which Dee removed from the museum wall at only 400 pesetas ($80). This would greatly lessen the gravity of the alleged attempted theft. The possible sentence in such a case could not exceed three or four months in Spain, either in prison or merely bound over to report periodically to the police, while the sentence could be commuted to the payment of a moderate fine.

BROOKHART SEES GOOD CHANCE FOR DEBENTURE PLAN

Washington, August 22.—(AP)—Upon his return to the capitol after an extended tour through the east and west Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, one of the republican independents who last winter unsuccessfully sought incorporation of the export debenture plan in the farm relief act, said today he believed there was "an excellent chance" for writing that proposal into the pending tariff bill.

"There is not only a chance," he added, "of the debenture being adopted by the senate, but there also is a good chance of its being adopted by the house."

EMPRINGHAM RESIGNS POSITION IN CHURCH

In Statement Issued, Pastor Declares Conscience Is Clear.

New York, August 22.—(AP)—Asserting that Christianity as interpreted by Bishop William T. Manning, of the Episcopal diocese of New York was a "lie and a curse to humanity," the Rev. James Empringham, pastor of St. James' Episcopal church in New York, today resigned his position. He stated in an open letter made public today to relieve him of his duties, which he resigned and renounced.

Dr. Empringham, who is national secretary of the Church Temperance society, said he had lost his faith 15 years ago and there seemed no probability of his regaining it. Among other things he criticized the bishop severely for his stand against divorce and remarriage. Dr. Empringham himself recently was divorced and married again.

Copies of the letter were sent to New York from California, where Dr. Empringham said he went to live because of serious heart disease and not, as published statements had charged, to avoid payment of rent on premises rented for his health education society, which was closed by the board of health.

Says Conscience Is Clear.

"I am returning to New York at once to face my defamers as my conscience is clear," he wrote.

Bishop Manning was in Maine on vacation and could not be reached from here for comment.

Dr. Empringham wrote that he first considered resigning from the ministry 15 years ago, when he was rector of St. Paul's church in Syracuse, N. Y., because he had lost faith not only "in the so-called Catholic dogmas," but also in the Apostles creed. He said the late chief justice of New York state, Charles Andrews, of Syracuse, senior warden of the church who had planned to have him named bishop coadjutor, persuaded him merely to give up active ministry until he should regain his lost faith.

He resigned his pastorate, he continued, and went into temperance work, becoming in time an opponent of prohibition, largely because the results of a questionnaire he sent to Episcopal ministers convinced him that prohibition was not serving the cause of temperance. At that time Bishop Manning issued a statement saying the church temperance society had no connection with the Episcopal church.

Stand On Prohibition.

"By my stand against prohibition and in various ways for years," Dr. Empringham wrote in his letter to the bishop, "I have been a thorn in the side of yourself and other good men and I think it would be better for me to resign my Christian commission."

"I am more than ever convinced that Christianity as interpreted by men of your school is not only a preposterous lie, but a hindrance and a curse to humanity productive of untold misery and immorality (as for example your un-Christian stand against the divorce and remarriage of complaining patients for their own gain).

Dr. Empringham asserted in the letter that published allegations that he had practiced medicine without a license in his health education society were fostered by some of a dozen surgeons he discharged because he suspected them of recommending unnecessary operations and otherwise exploiting patients for their own gain.

Scores Former Employees.

"As a result of my drastic management," he wrote, "a large body of disgruntled discharged employees accumulated who employed every possible means to 'frame' or entrap me into a violation of the medical practice act, but I was careful to do no medical work myself though as a food chemist by profession I did not hesitate to recommend temperate, scientific diet to every person I met."

Dr. Empringham, who holds a D. D. degree from Syracuse university, said that the department of health had closed his clinic "no doubt influenced by the complaints of discharged employees," because it seemed the law was being violated there.

PRINCE SAYS U. S. WIFE TO JOIN HIM IN ITALY

Elsie Moore, Estranged Mate, Denies Torlonia's Story, However.

Rome, August 22.—(AP)—Prince Torlonia, husband of the former Elsie Moore, of Greenwich, Conn., believes the only thing standing in the way of reconciliation between them is a matter of citizenship.

"And that," he told the Associated Press, "will be resolved by her coming to Rome next February to live with our three children."

Their son, Alexander, who will go to college for several months before commencing a two-year compulsory military training course as an Italian citizen, said his mother and two sisters would return to Rome next February.

The matter of the American divorce which the mother, as Princess Torlonia, obtained in 1928 at Bridgeport, Conn., the prince disposed of with: "As an American she could obtain a divorce."

"But when she returns to Italy," she is still my wife for divorce is not recognized here."

The prince and princess were married August 15, 1907, at Greenwich, Conn. In 1927 United States citizenship was conferred on her by Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas. Her divorce action, named as co-respondent Marie Lorenson, of Rome.

At her home in Greenwich yesterday the former Elsie Moore described as "absolutely false" reports from Rome she and her husband, the Prince of Torlonia, would be reconciled.

"I am not going to Rome to see him," she said. "I have little or no interest in him. I am not going to be reconciled and I want you to say for me that any report of reconciliation is absolutely false."

PRINCE SAYS U. S. WIFE TO JOIN HIM IN ITALY

Elsie Moore, Estranged Mate, Denies Torlonia's Story, However.

Rome, August 22.—(AP)—Prince Torlonia, husband of the former Elsie Moore, of Greenwich, Conn., believes the only thing standing in the way of reconciliation between them is a matter of citizenship.

"And that," he told the Associated Press, "will be resolved by her coming to Rome next February to live with our three children."

Their son, Alexander, who will go to college for several months before commencing a two-year compulsory military training course as an Italian citizen, said his mother and two sisters would return to Rome next February.

The matter of the American divorce which the mother, as Princess Torlonia, obtained in 1928 at Bridgeport, Conn., the prince disposed of with: "As an American she could obtain a divorce."

"But when she returns to Italy," she is still my wife for divorce is not recognized here."

The prince and princess were married August 15, 1907, at Greenwich, Conn. In 1927 United States citizenship was conferred on her by Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas. Her divorce action, named as co-respondent Marie Lorenson, of Rome.

At her home in Greenwich yesterday the former Elsie Moore described as "absolutely false" reports from Rome she and her husband, the Prince of Torlonia, would be reconciled.

"I am not going to Rome to see him," she said. "I have little or no interest in him. I am not going to be reconciled and I want you to say for me that any report of reconciliation is absolutely false."

Sam Murray Added to Tech Coaching Staff: Atlanta Gives Cardinal Team Royal Welcome

BACKFIELD ACE WILL AID CLAY WITH RAT TEAM

All Is Ready for Fall
Football Grind at Grant Field.

By Herb Clark.

Sam Murray, one of the smartest and most powerful backs ever to play for Georgia Tech, has offered his services as a coach to his alma mater, and, having been accepted by Head Coach Alexander, he will come out on September 3 to impart all the knowledge he can to the Jacket backfield candidates and to assist the regular staff.

Murray, who completed his playing days in the fall of 1926, was a full-back. A stocky lad, he had speed as well as power and tore many an opposing line to pieces. He had a natural gift for finding the holes and for sifting through a broken field, and was a strong defensive back.

He will start work with the varsity call and will go up on the freshman field with Kid Clay on September 16, when the frosh are slated to report.

VALUABLE MAN.

Murray should be a valuable addition to the coaching staff, which shows only one major change from that of 1928.

Coach Alexander, who will start on his eighteenth season as mentor of the Jacket grid squad, has everything in readiness for the coming of the long grind which will keep the Engineers at work for 14 weeks.

The staff which will assist him is partially the same as that which was at his side during the 1928 campaign.

Don Miller, four horseman back, was in charge of the Tech ball-carriers, will be at Ohio State this fall to supply the big change.

MILES REPLACES MILLER.

Mike Miles, the Princeton fullback who won fame last year for his all-around play, will take Miller's place. Miles was a great back at the Tiger school, having been powerful on the attack and able on defense.

He is reputed to have the knack of passing his knowledge on to others, and should fill Miller's shoes well. His training under the new system of play, which will also have a beneficial effect on the Jacket game.

Bill Fincher and Captain Robinson will return as the other assistants on the varsity.

Sam Murray and Roy Muddoff will give Clay what assistance he needs.

Fischer Faces Job.

Fincher will again occupy himself with the middle of the line and guards. He will be kept plenty busy, as the line reserves have been sadly depleted since last season.

Fincher is not lacking, however, but Fincher is faced with the task of building up an entire reserve crew.

He has two tackles and two guards who have been through the mill before, but must find and develop the men who are to be used for replacements.

Captain Robinson, with but one experienced end and one who has played a little at his nucleus, has practically the same job. His reserve material will come almost entirely from the freshmen squad.

The freshmen squad has been varied, but they will have to learn fast and much to be of real value to the varsity.

KID CLAY BACK.

Kid Clay returns as freshman mentor. He has had the task of training players for the big squad for many years now, and has developed almost every player who has ever played varsity ball at Tech.

His rat team has a habit of turning in a good record, and he is expected to turn out a good team again this year.

Sam Murray and Roy Muddoff will give Clay what assistance he needs.

TOMMY ARMOUR LEADS TOURNEY AT MILWAUKEE

Dark Scot Shoots 65 for Medal in Western Open.

By Paul R. Mickelson,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Ozaukee Country Club, Milwaukee, Wis., August 22.—(AP)—Tommy Armour, dark-skinned little Scot from the Tam O'Shanter Club of Orchard Lake, Mich., whipped out his magic irons today and defeated the largest and most brilliant field in the history of the western open golf championship for medalist honors.

While a large gallery stormed about the greater favorites in the championship battle, Armour whizzed around the Ozaukee Country Club course in 65 strokes, five under par. One stroke behind him was Horton Smith, the sensational young professional from Joplin, Mo., and the darling of the galleries.

Gene Sarazen, former national open champion from Flushing, L. I., and Dick Nelson, a rank outsider from Indianapolis, came next with 68.

150 QUALIFY.

One hundred and seventy entrants whose scores ranged from 80 downward, qualified for the second 18-hole round of the 72-hole scramble for the championship. Under tournament rules, all low 150 and ties qualify and the 50s squeezed in because there were only 149 who had 70 or lower.

Mastery with his irons carried Armour to his triumph today. While his drives were nothing spectacular, he repeatedly rapped his approach to within easy putting distance. On 10 greens he was close enough with his pitches for birdies, and six times he made his only single putts good. Only once was he over par on any hole. He went out in 33 and came home in 32. Driving was Smith's forte in his great round. Several times he drove 350 yards down the center of the fairway and despite intermittent thunderstorms that swept the course he followed up his advantage with steady pitching and putting. His two rounds were both 33s or two under.

While the showers hindered many title aspirants today scores were much better than those turned in by the first flight yesterday. Six shattered par, two equalled it, while more than a score turned in cards of 75 or better.

LOW SCORERS.

Other low scores for the tournament, including those of yesterday, were:

Bob Walsh, Appleton, Wis., 69; Henry Cuci, Stratford, Conn., 69; Willard Hutchinson, Genoa, Ill., 69; Bob MacDonald, Chicago, 69; Leonard Schmutz, Lincoln, Ohio, 69; Carberry, Chicago, 70; Jack Hutchinson, Chicago, 70; Harry Hampton, Chicago, 70.

Schmutz, Willard, Hutchinson and MacDonald led yesterday's scorers with their 69s.

One of the surprising features of the day was the showing of Sergeant, of Columbus, Ohio, who held the national open championship in 1909. The veteran Ohioan turned in 69-36-71, to land among the low scorers. "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, who was a doubtful starter up until the last hour, and Bobby Carberry, of New York, another former national open champion, scored 71.

Most of the other favorites turned in good scores, among them were: Dennis Schutte, Canton, Ohio, 73; A. Espinoza, Chicago, 74; Emmett French, Youngstown, Ohio, 75; Abe Opatowicz, Chicago, present titleholder, who got a 76.

BELL BEATEN.

Lott won from Berkeley Bell, of Dallas, Texas, the national intercollegiate champion, in a 49-game five-set match which lasted almost three hours. The scores were 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Tilden advanced by evening his score with Fritz Mercer, of Harrisburg, Pa., a French player who came here defeated him in tournament play. Mercer's control was erratic and Tilden was never seriously threatened.

Coen gained the only straight set victory in the quarter-finals singles round. He defeated Paul Dirou, a young French player who came here with the Oxford-Cambridge team, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4.

The fourth semi-finalist is Freddy Woods, of Vancouver, who defeated Philip Neer, of Portland, Oregon, and Bruce Barnes, of Austin, Texas, were defeated by J. R. Feno, Boston, and E. W. Peiselman, of New York, 9-7, 6-2, 6-3, in their quarter-finals match.

UPSETTERS LOSE.

The Neer-Barnes team, conquerors of John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, the world's champion doubles pair, was expected to survive until the final.

The other pairs to advance were Tilden and Frank Hunter, Lott and John Doe, of Santa Monica, Cal., and Mercer and J. Gilbert Hall, of New York.

Tilden and Hunter won the right to clash with Lott and Doe in the semi-finals by eliminating R. N. Williams II, of Philadelphia, and Dr. George King, New York, 7-5, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2. Lott and Doe defeated Guy Cooper and Paul Dirou, the Anglo-French team, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3. Mercer and Hall gained their second last doubles break by taking three straight from Frank X. Shields, of Orange, N. J., and Donald Strachan, Philadelphia, 10-8, 6-2, 7-5.

Famous Sandlot Team Is Welcomed Home!

The Inman Park Cardinals, winners of the Georgia state sandlot title and the regional finals at Meridian, Miss., went to the semi-finals at Washington in the tournament sponsored by the major leagues and the American Legion. They arrived home yesterday and were welcomed at the Peachtree station by representatives of the Legion, the Chamber of Commerce and by the Legion drum and bugle corps. At the left is the Legion committee, Frank Calloway and Major Trammell Scott. At the extreme right of the photograph is B. S. Parker, of the Chamber of Commerce.

Cracker Boss, Replying to Griffith, Says It Will Ruin Minor League Baseball.

By Ralph McGill.

Mr. Rell J. Spiller, the plaintiff of Ponce de Leon, revealed nothing new in his reply to the statement of Clark Griffith, the Old Fox of Washington Square, regarding the sale of the Cracker ball club.

Mr. Spiller had had his say before. Mr. Griffith had not. His story of the sale, given this reporter at Washington and appearing in The Constitution of Wednesday, opened up some new angles to the famous sale-that-never-was.

The plaintiff of Ponce de Leon denied that there was any reason for the abandoning of the sale by The Old Fox and indicated that he would sue for substantial damages.

The Old Fox had a lot of reasons but the one which the others seem to have overlooked is one which is all covered up with a couple of Latin phrases, one of which is malum prohibendum.

The Washington corporation could not buy the stock in any corporation in any other state, the District of Columbia prohibiting it. Therefore the contract was invalid per se and could not stand on its legs any more than a sailor on first shore leave.

OTHER MATTERS.

The Old Fox mentioned other matters, opposition in the league to the purchase, but went right back to the law on the case which wins both ways.

The Old Fox remained in perfect good humor about the whole matter, stating that he believed the Cracker owner would some day do the right thing in the matter and pay back the Cracker owner.

He did say that he would have been glad to send Atlanta three good ballplayers. Mr. Spiller refused them, demanding two outright and others on option.

Having won a pennant or so and a world series, The Old Fox hinted that had the Crackers taken the loan for the league, he would have won a pennant and a championship.

STATEMENT REPEATED.

The Cracker owner repeated a statement yesterday, given to the press the day after he sold his club, that there was much opposition to chain store baseball.

"I look for the winter meetings to bring forth much discussion of the chain store idea," he said. "There has been enough excitement this summer to bring the matter up for some sort of action."

"Even though I sold out to a chain store plan I think it is a bad idea and will kill baseball. I don't believe the minor leagues will be able to continue if the major leagues are not kept out."

This statement, made at the time of the sale, was particularly galling to the purchasers. It also caused some Southern league owners to oppose the idea. "If Mr. Spiller thinks it is bad for the league, we wouldn't want it to go through," said one of them as he announced his opposition to the sale.

DIVIDED.

On this matter the Old Fox and the Cracker president are on opposite sides. The Washington owner believes it is an excellent plan and an aid to the minor league clubs.

"We must have some place to develop our players," he said. "If we had been able to obtain the Atlanta club we would have run it for Atlanta and not for Washington."

Southern league officials will have some interesting discussions this winter. There is no doubt of that. They will discuss the Mobile club, for instance, with avidity, and they will also

SANDLOT NINE GLAD TO GET HOME AGAIN

Climbing of Washington Monument Advanced as Reason for Losing.

By Ralph McGill.

In a man a Park's Cardinals came home yesterday—their heads stuck out of the windows for the last 10 miles before Peachtree station and the welcome by the American Legion committee and the drum and bugle corps.

There is an old saying that wherever the winds of Georgia run they smell of peaches long in the sun and the Cardinals, defeated in the semi-finals of the Eastern Junior Baseball championship at Washington Wednesday, insisted that there was a difference in "the atmosphere."

They took in all the atmosphere they get, reducing the Pullman car to the day coach status by pushing up all the screens and enduring the fow of cinders and dust for the rare privilege of sticking a head out the window.

They were tremendously hurt by the defeat of Wednesday at the hands of the Buffalo team, which went on yesterday to win the title by beating Maine. They took it stoically and by morning had rebounded. They welcomed the dawn on the sleeper by appearing suddenly in B.V.D.s, yelling to each other and startling ladies passing through.

Longing for Home.

All day long they commented in deprecatory fashion on the territory passed over and longed for Georgia with a longing that approached downright nostalgia.

It was Joe Gershon, the mascot, who revealed yesterday, on the way home, one reason why the Cardinals may have lacked the punch in the final inning Wednesday when they filled the bases with two out.

Joe Gershon is checking all his ten-year-old eyes as he looks at the president, the tomb of the unknown soldier, Arlington cemetery, the capitol and the Washington monument.

"That sure was a long climb," said Joe reflectively.

It developed, upon investigation, that two-thirds of the Cardinal team had gone sight-seeing on the morning before the game—a trip taken on their own initiative.

They wanted to go to the top of Washington monument. And why pay to ride the elevator when there were steps there?

800 STEPS.

And so up the steps they went—just 800 steps to the top of the monument—525 to the air. No young and resilient, could stand that strain and the frolic through a ball game, a baseball game, but then they almost won it. There is no telling about the Cardinals, the irrepressibles.

They left Cardinals at a special car. A Pullman conductor with a desire to obey all the rules kept checking up until after midnight. There were no other passengers in the car, but the conductor thought it entirely necessary to see that Mr. Kunsberg slept constantly.

The Cardinals were pushed down the stairs and the cinders streamed in all night. They thrived on cinders in their bedding, do the Cardinals.

CUTTING PRICES.

They banded together to cheat the high prices of the dining car at breakfast and at noon, swamping sandwich dealers on route. Ten sandwiches may be purchased for a dollar and the dollar is very, very timid on the dining cars.

Trammell Scott and Frank Calloway, of the Atlanta Legion post, and R. S. Barker, of the Chamber of Commerce, composed the committee that met in a picture show at Peachtree station. The Legion drum and bugle corps struck up a spirited march as the team left the train. They posted a picture beneath a great sign which proclaimed them champions of eight states.

The Cardinals are through with baseball for a while. The semi-finals seemed good enough for a close.

Swimmers Set
For 10-Mile Race

Toronto, August 22.—(AP)—Forty-four mermaids started today for the ten-mile swimming marathon off the exhibition park seawall in Lake Ontario tomorrow afternoon. This number has passed the physical test. Of the 45 entrants examined, the only young woman to fail was Lona Lett, of Memphis, Tenn.

Miss Lett has entered the lists with her mother, Mrs. C. N. Lett. The daughter's blood pressure was found to be 106, and physicians said this would prevent her from swimming in water colder than 60 degrees. Mrs. Lett said she was giving up the race because of her daughter's inability to compete, but that the last report, she had not withdrawn.

The swimmers will taper off with limbering exercises in the water today. Among the notables entered are Ethel Herlie and Martha Norrell, of New York; Doris Berford and Olive Gardiner, of Toronto; Ruth Towers, of Denver; Dorothy Widmer, of Seattle; and Della Sullivan, of Holyoke, Mass.

After inspecting the course veteran competitors said they expected the water to be much warmer than the specified 58 degrees. If it is colder than the agreed 58, the swim will not be held.

Coaches' School To Open Today

Gainesville, Fla., August 22.—(AP)—The why and wherefore of things athletic will occupy the minds of some 200 coaches and high school players as they attend an eight-day coaching school, which is to open tomorrow at the University of Florida.

Intensive and ext. live "skull practice" will be one part of the athletes' and mentors' curriculum in their study of the sciences of football, basketball and track. The practical side is to be given equal emphasis, with the Gainesville High school football squad acting as demonstrators of the fine points of football under the direction of university coaches.

Four complete football squads from various Florida high schools have been planned to attend the school, in which tuition is to be free, others are expected.

Charles W. Bachman, head football coach and director of athletics at the University of Florida, said Higgins, assistant football coach and track coach, and Warren C. "Brady" Cowell, baseball coach and freshman football and basketball coach, will be instructors.

By Roy E. White.

BANKERS OPEN TOURNAMENT TODAY

Qualifying Rounds To Be Played Over East Lake, Druid Hills.

Qualifying rounds for the annual bankers golf tournament will be played today over the East Lake course, and Sunday and Tuesday of next week over the Druid Hills course, it was announced Thursday by officials in charge. Every employee, officer and director of all clearing house banks in the city is eligible to participate in the tourney.

Match play will start September 1 and one week will be given to each round of play. Matches may be played over either the East Lake or Druid Hills course.

R. P. Jones, winner of the tournament last year, will not defend his title this year. He is in California with his son, Bob, who will defend his national amateur crown beginning September 2.

Jim Floyd, medalist last year, is in Europe and will not be on hand to qualify. A large trophy given by the clearing house banks will be presented to the winner and the medalist and runner-up will also receive trophies. Winners in each flight will receive prizes also.

Goat Cochran Takes Lead.

A. J. (Goat) Cochran, with a 75, Thursday afternoon took the lead in the qualifying rounds of the annual club championship of the West End Golf Club. Only a few of the members have qualified thus far, but with only three days left, a large number is expected on the course over the week-end.

Pairings will be made Sunday night and match play will start Monday.

Youths' Tie For Medal.

Charles Dannels, Jr., and Tom Shropshire, Jr., with 80 each, are tied for medalist honors in the first annual golf championship for junior members of the Capital City Club. Qualifying rounds in the tournament are scheduled to be completed today, but arrangements can be made to qualify Saturday morning, Howard Beckett, club professional, stated Thursday night. Only a few of the members have qualified thus far and scores have been higher than usual.

R. D. Godley, Jr., defeated W. Q. Slaughter, 1 up, in the semi-finals of the fourth flight in the only match played Thursday on the Capital City course in the C. T. Nunnally trophy tournament.

Dick Garlington, club champion, and Fred Minnich will play an 18-hole match this afternoon in the semi-finals of the championship flight. Tully Walsh, runner-up in the club championship, won his way to the finals Sunday by eliminating J. R. Whitton in the morning and Henry Grady, Jr., in an afternoon match.

Several Matches At Forrest Hills.

Several matches are slated to be played this afternoon on the Forrest Hills course in the quarter finals of the club championship. Only one or two matches have been played this week. Jack Warner, club professional, has moved his golf shop into a small building near the club house and has one of the newest golf shops in the city. The old shop has been remodelled into a lounge room.

New Field House.

University of Missouri will have a new fieldhouse by January 1. The structure will cost $225,000.

Passes Another Milestone

One of the most celebrated figures in the sports world is Amos Alonzo Stagg, athletic director and football coach of the University of Chicago. He is still one of the leading coaches of the country at the age of 67. He celebrated his 67th birthday by playing a tennis match with his son, Paul, pictured on his "dad's" right. Paul will enter his sophomore year this fall. Sarah Palfrey, 16-year-old Boston tennis sensation, is shown on the right receiving the trophy after her sensational victory in the eastern grass court championship recently.

Pawky Peter.

The wind was off the lighthouse, the wind was off the sea; A weary wind to wrestle with, an unco wind to see; But Pawky Peter Nicoll had the short hole in three.

Up the funnel of the fairway we faced the tempest's roar, And each with sixes and with sevens diversified his score; But Pawky Peter Nicoll did the long fifth in four.

Whole sandhills hurtled through the air, the burn was down in spite, And some were here and some were there and very few were straight; But Pawky Peter poked his way to the ninth in thirty-eight.

Fairly behind us raged the blast when once we reached the turn, And it tempted Pawky Peter's soul its pawkiness to spurn, And Pawky Peter pressed and topped—and landed in the burn.

And after several wondrous words, "Aweel," he said, "it's true That a heid win' is a heid win', an' a man kens what to do; But, lads, tak' tent o' a fellyin' win'—an' a fellyin' fortune, too!" H. B., in "Punch."

A Flock of Philosophy.

There is a large flock or chunk of philosophy in the last line of the above verses. There are any number, whether it be in sport or in the general run of existence, who can back a head wind, but who take a flop when a favoring gale arrives.

This is one of the reasons why football coaches preach the doctrine of pessimism to their teams. They like to get over the idea that only a desperate uphill battle will save the day—that each game is a head-wind contest, not one with a following breeze.

Few can travel with a favoring gale. Their feet run out from under them. Too much success, comparatively speaking, has done more damage than the harder road can bring about.

A Sporting Chance.

In traveling more than 7,000 miles to compete in the next United States amateur golf championship at Pebble Beach, Cyril Tolley, British amateur champion, takes a sporting chance that is worth noting. Tolley comes across as the leading amateur representative of British golf. In four or five attempts on this side he has qualified only once. On his arrival at Pebble Beach he will be one of 150 or 160 leading golfers where only 32 can get a shot at match play. Tolley's strongest point is match play. He is a hard, keen, determined fighter in a man-to-man match, much better at this than he is at playing against the par of a course. One or two bad holes may upset his medal round, but in match play he can match these with some brilliant turns.

Outside of four or five leading stars, the odds are about 4 to 1 against any other individual qualifying. Only 20 per cent of the field can survive after the 36-hole medal elimination is over. All of which the British champion understood before he started across the Atlantic.

There is this, however, in Tolley's favor. He is more accustomed to seaside links than he is to inland courses. Pebble Beach puts a premium on long hitting, especially those holes that demand stout carries against the wind. None of these carries will bother the British golfer. It might also be remembered that Tolley has been playing far better golf this season than he ever played before. He has curbed his keen desire to hit the ball a mile or two. He has cut down his slugging. Tolley has always been a fine putter, and this means more than a thin bit at either medal or match play golf.

Certainly everyone present at Pebble Beach will be pulling hard for the big invader to make the grade and get his shot at match play, where he will be one of the features of the program. Tolley is always worth watching where his long hitting, his hard fighting and his personal magnetism are much above the general average.

There will be other good British and Canadian golfers in this championship with a good chance to qualify, notably Eustace Storer, Ross Somerville, and Don Carrick. The international side will be high class in every respect.

It is usually around this time of the year that Babe Ruth decides to step on the gas along the home run speedway, and if he is anywhere near his old finishing stuff, Klein and others will soon begin to inhale a cloud of dust.

There will be any number of claims offered in behalf of some new heavyweight champion, but after looking over the present muddle it will be at least six months or a year before the unscrambling process will be completed.

In less than ten days now the first of the football squads will be back at work or play, or whatever you care to call it. And it was only a breath or two ago that violent arguments were still raging as to the rank and standing of the crop of 1928. These arguments will start at any moment now, as the average football debater sees no particular use in delaying his start. They can at least begin claiming until the final scores prove them wrong. And even final scores are often tossed out of the window in the ultimate summing up.

Benning Polo Four Beaten

Chicago, August 22.—(AP)—Fort Leavenworth's polo team battered its way to the finals of the United States 12-goal championships today, scoring an easy 13-to-5 victory over the Fort Benning, Ga., four.

The Kansas outfit ran up a lead of eight goals to one in the first four chukkers, and coasted the rest of the way in. Major Richard Creed led the winning four with six goals, and Captain Robert McClure topped the Georgians with four.

The other semi-final between Oakbrook-Dupage, of Chicago, and the Midwick Club, of Pasadena, Cal., was postponed until tomorrow to give their ponies more rest. The final will be played Sunday.

Buffalo Wins Eastern Series

Washington, August 22.—(AP)—A wideawake nine from Buffalo, N. Y., today won the American Legion junior baseball title from 23 other eastern states and the District of Columbia and will meet a team from the western half of the country at Louisville, Ky., early in September for the national championship.

Timely hitting and good fielding gave the Buffalo team a 6-to-4 victory over Lisbon Falls, Maine. The Maine entry was the third to fall before Buffalo, which defeated Uniontown, Pa., and Atlanta, Ga., on its way to the final round.

A tall pitcher, Wojtkowiak, who played first base in the previous games, held Lisbon Falls to five scattered hits. The hurler's two triples were high spots in the attack, and he scored twice by alert base-running.

WIDENER COLT GALLOPS HOME AT SARATOGA

War Saint Noses in To Grab Third Straight Victory.

By Orlo L. Robertson, Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, August 22.—(AP)—War Saint, a flashy two-year-old from the George D. Widener stable, again demonstrated his likeness for the racing strip at Saratoga today as he hung up his third straight to win the Adirondack handicap at six furlongs.

One hundred and eighteen pounds, a part of which was Linus "Pony" McAtee, meant nothing to the brilliant son of St. James-War Goddess. He got off to a flying start and set the pace to the top of the stretch. When the Howe stable's Goldbrook threatened on the outside McAtee sat down and rode War Saint hard to win by a nose. Goldbrook, an aided starter, was three lengths in front of the Brook-Meade stable's Racecon for third.

Stepping the six panels in the fast time of 1:12 brought $5,200 to the owner of the winner. War Saint was the first of the three favorites to score, the other three events going to rank outsiders.

Double Pay accounted for the Senator Kavanaugh handicap for three-year-olds and up and Bright Red was first in the sixth race to give the form players an even break. Double Pay was quoted at 4 to 5 and Bright Red at 11 to 5, while War Saint paid 2 to 1.

Fire Line, however, took the opener at odds of 12 to 1 while the second went to Vocellian, a jumper that paid his backers 20 to 1. The long shot players scored again in the fifth on Passing By, which was good for 15 to 1.

The favorites likewise fared quite badly at Hawthorne, where five outsiders won, only two form runners scoring. Lillian Tobin with Paul Neal in the saddle took the opener and paid $33.74 to win. The second went to Cash Play, which rewarded his backers $15.54 for a $2 win ticket. Heretiz made it three straight for the long shots in the third and paid $19.60 to win. Even the feature—the Sherbourne purse for 70-year-olds and up at one mile and 70 yards—went to an outsider, Fairdale winning and paying $23.75 to win.

The form players finally broke through in the fifth and sixth races with Brilliant and Pat Field but Donna Santa closed the program with an $18.80 for $2 victory.

The Baltimore Black Sox won the first half pennant in the Eastern Colored league, but only had a half game margin over the Lincoln Giants of New York.

Close Race.

Always an Invitation to the pause that refreshes—

Whenever thirst calls or you feel that urge to pause and refresh yourself, you don't have to go far or wait long for Coca-Cola. Here it is—ready for you—ice-cold—around the corner from anywhere . . . How foolish to keep on driving yourself. "Time out" is a part of every game, when players rest and regain pep for the next period. How much more important it is that you pause in the busy day—relax—forget the strain—rest for a minute . . . Long enough, if you spend it with a sparkling, ice-cold, tingling Coca-Cola. Marvelously delicious, supremely wholesome, wholly refreshing . . . Then, back to work again with all the zest of a fresh start.

NEW SCHOOL DISTRICT COMMITTEE IS SOUGHT

Appointment of Body Will Be Asked at Meeting of Education Board This Afternoon.

Appointment of a special committee to assist in drafting plans for establishment of a metropolitan school district in which the greater portion of Greater Atlanta will be included, will be asked at a special meeting of the Atlanta board of education at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the city hall, it was announced Thursday by George Powell, president.

The statement from the board president came on the heels of announcement by Mrs. H. G. Parks, president of the Atlanta Council Parent-Teachers' Association, of cancellation of a series of meetings before which both proponents and opponents of a proposed merger of the Atlanta and Fulton county school systems, under a plan approved by the Georgia assembly were to have been discussed. Mr. Powell and other high officials of the system, as well as representatives of Fulton schools, held a conference Wednesday at which all phases of the consolidation were discussed. Predictions were that Atlanta and Fulton county school systems will be operated for the next two years as they are at present, and that the new plan will be mapped before the 1931 session of the Georgia assembly, at which time ratification of the merger program, which is expected to be evolved from the conferences, will be offered.

Members of the Fulton county board of education will be called upon to name a special committee to act for that body at its regular meeting, slated for September 3. Under the agreement which has been reached between officials of the Fulton county system and Atlanta school heads, the Fulton board will not ask for a referendum on the merger measure approved by the legislature. "It seems to be a golden opportunity for the residents of Greater Atlanta to do big things for their schools," said President Powell yesterday.

"I have always advocated establishment of metropolitan school district and administration of school affairs by a board of education of reduced size. I opposed the plan as advocated in the bill because I felt it meant abolishment of the Atlanta schools, so far as adequate representation is concerned."

An automobile load of whisky and a small still were seized by county police Thursday morning and the driver of the car and two men at the still were arrested. J. R. Shirley was caught by Officers W. ## PLOT TO ESCAPE BELIEVED BALKED AT FULTON TOWER

With Fulton tower jammed with 426 prisoners, Jailer Bob Holland and a squad of deputies Thursday morning raided Cell Block "third north" and uncovered seven bunk chains which had been pulled loose from their moorings and hidden.

The chains were confiscated and locked in the jail office, Jailer Holland said that the iron links would have been used as weapons if the prisoners had tried to bolt. Among the prisoners in third north are Fred Fair, Sam Aiken and Ward Vickers, all murder defendants. Vickers is held for Butts county courts. All of the prisoners in the cell block denied any knowledge of the chains, Jailer Holland said.

Miss Parker Weds Joseph O. Martin In Fairburn, Ga.

Fairburn, Ga., August 22.—A wedding of beauty was that of Miss Lurline Parker, of Fairburn, and Joseph Oscar Martin, of Covington and Atlanta, a state supervisor of schools, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, August 22. Rev. Charles L. Bass performed the impressive ceremony in the presence of only the immediate relatives and closest friends.

As the guests assembled a program of pre-nuptial music was rendered. J. M. Wilson, of Atlanta, uncle of the bride, sang "All for You," Mrs. Hilton Wall accompanying on the piano. Mrs. Lovie P. Longino, of Milledgeville, sang "At Dawning," accompanied by Miss Cecil Longino, of Fairburn, Ga. Mrs. Longino sang James Whitcomb Riley's "Prayer Perfect." At the first strains of the "Lohengrin" wedding march the ribbon bearers entered, forming the pathway for the bride and groom with white tulle ribbons. They were little Miss Dorothy Jane Wilson, of Atlanta, daintily dressed in a French model of pink and blue chiffon elaborately trimmed with silk lace and bows of double-faced ribbon and Wilbur Vinson, Jr., of Fort Benning, who wore a tailor made suit of exquisite white satin. Both children carried old-fashioned bouquets of flowers in pastel shades to which the ribbons were attached.

The bride then entered with the groom and they took their places at the altar. The bride was never prettier than in her wedding dress which was a new fall model of blue chiffon velvet, trimmed in real lace with which she wore blue shoes. Her hat was a Soleil model of blue velvet and her gloves and hose were of harmonizing shade. She carried an exquisite shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held. Mrs. James Oscar Parker, mother of the bride, received, wearing black chiffon with a shouler corsage of pink roses and valley lilies. After the reception the bride changed her wedding dress for a modish going-away ensemble of blue broadcloth with eggshell satin blouse and hose and hat of corresponding shade. They left immediately for a trip through the mountains of North Carolina, the Shenandoah valley, Washington City and points.

After September 1 Mr. and Mrs. Martin will be at home at 940 William Mill road, N. E., Atlanta, Ga. This marriage unites two distinguished educators who belong to families long prominent in the social, educational and political circles of this state.

98 out of 100 Women Report Benefit.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the written endorsement of half a million women.

By accurate record, 98 out of every 100 women who report after taking it say, "It helped me."

What other medicine has such a record of success?

ETHEL FLEETWOOD
3023 Bandin St., New Orleans, Louisiana

"I am a saleslady in a store. My nerves got the best of me and I never had good finger nails because I couldn't stop biting them off. My appetite was poor and I was always tired. One of my friends told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would help me. I know that it controls the nerves because I have no desire to bite my nails now and they are long and well kept. My appetite is enormous and I feel like a new person. I have recommended your good medicine to many girls and I assure you that they have found the same good results. I will gladly answer letters from women or girls."—Miss Ethel Fleetwood.

MRS. ANGELINE MAJKOWSKI
517-153rd Place, Harvey, Illinois

"This is to thank you for helping me get my health. After I was married I had to be operated on and it didn't do me any good. I was so worried and cried all the time for I had spent over $800 for sickness and yet I didn't get better. I saw a sign about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in a drug store and I took four bottles. Now there is happiness in our home, for we have two little boys with nice red cheeks. I am healthy myself and the more Vegetable Compound I take the better I feel. I have told my friends about it for I believe it will help anybody if they take it regularly."—Mrs. Angeline Majkowski.

MRS. W. OVERMANN
918 Regina Ave., St. Louis, Missouri

"Nine years ago when my little girl was born dead, I seemed to lose every bit of strength and vitality. I had an awful pulling down feeling in my back and my legs were so stiff I could hardly walk. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about four months. The next year I became the mother of a fine 11-pound baby boy. After he was born, I kept on with the medicine to build me up. About four months ago I became very nervous and rundown and suffered from other troubles which I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable would relieve so I started taking it and now I feel fine again. Many of my friends could write a book on the good the Vegetable Compound has done them."—Mrs. W. Overmann.

DOLORES WINTERS
842 N. Lawndale Ave., Chicago, Illinois

"I got so nervous I could not sleep at night. I felt weak and had no appetite. My mother recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took two bottles. It helped me very much and I recommend it highly. I feel so much stronger, have a better appetite and work in the factory every day."—Dolores Winters.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE LITTLE DOG FINDS A HOME.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

How things may end we never can tell; The poor beginning turns out well.

"Well, well, well!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's boy, as he came out of the Long Lane into the farmyard and saw Bowser the Hound looking down at a strange little dog.

"Now, where did you come from, little fellow? What is the matter with you? Has something made you sick?"

He went over to the little dog and patted him gently. The little dog looked up at him gratefully and licked his hand.

"You must have lost your collar," said Farmer Brown's boy. "You must have run away and are lost. Well, you came to the right place. Yes, sir, you came to the right place."

The little dog feebly thumped the ground with his tail. It was a stub tail, for the little dog was a wire-haired fox-terrier. Farmer Brown's boy went into the house and brought out a pan of water. The little dog drank gratefully. The water made him feel better. Just then Old Mr. Toad hopped out from the flower bed. The little dog backed off and growled. Farmer Brown's boy no longer had a lesson. Well, I guess you'll leave toads alone hereafter.

Of course, the little dog didn't understand what Farmer Brown's boy was saying, but he knew that he was being talked to from the flower bed. Already he had made up his mind that he would have Farmer Brown's boy for a master, too. He had made up his mind that he would no longer go roaming about and running away.

When Farmer Brown's boy started for the house and whistled for the little dog, the latter promptly bounded after him. He was feeling so much better now that he could gambol a little in a feeble sort of way. Farmer Brown's boy took him into the house and there Mother Brown made much of him. "Where do you suppose he has come from?" said she.

Farmer Brown's boy shook his head. "I haven't the slightest idea," he replied. "I don't know of any one in the neighborhood who owns a dog."

"Where do you suppose he has come from?" said she.

like this. I guess we shall have to keep him until someone comes to claim him. Probably somebody will appear sooner or later."

Now, if the little dog had understood what Farmer Brown's boy was saying, and he could have replied, he would have only too eagerly told Farmer Brown's boy that he didn't want to go back where he came from; that he hadn't been happy there, but that now he was happy and wanted to stay. As a matter of fact, he had fully made up his mind that he was going to stay.

DRAPED LARE.

A new silhouette for the youthfully smart woman. It shows the raised waistline, a chic detail in all Paris frocks. The circular skirt in diagonal movement is draped at left side which is suggestive of wrapped treatment.

Style No. 566 combines printed and plain cotton voile, the popular summer fabric. It comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 35, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

The dress-slender silhouette makes it suitable for the larger woman, by placing the circular fullness low, crepe de chine, yellow handkerchief linen, orchid and white printed lawn, purple aster georgette crepe, printed rajah in caprine tones, and sky-blue sheer lace are distinctly smart combinations for this charming afternoon model. Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

We suggest that when you send for this pattern, you enclose 10 cents additional for a copy of our Fashion Magazine. It's just filled with delightful styles, including smart ensembles, and cute designs for the kiddies.

Why a circus without an elephant isn't a circus will be explained by Bob Sherwood, half-century veteran of the sawdust ring, in "The Elly-ahoe Show," a comedy to be heard during the broadcast of the Dixie Circus through WSB and the N. B. C. System this evening at 5:30 o'clock.

Sherwood claims that elephants are the most intelligent of circus animals and has several stories to prove his point. The "Elly-ahoe Show" is a comedy to be heard during the broadcast of the Dixie Circus through WSB and the N. B. C. System this evening at 5:30 o'clock.

Just before their vessel steamed out of Norfolk harbor en route to the Panama Canal and the Pacific coast, Mary and Bob are invited to a soiree given in their honor by one of the "F. F. V. S." and it is here that the True Story Hour broadcast over station WOR and the Columbia Broadcasting System at 7 o'clock tonight, finds the two young travelers.

After the musical entertainment provided for Mary and Bob they hear a different story from those which have so far been told them—the story of a strange young man, a note which brought him to the brink of disaster in a mad effort to save his brother. A wild sequence of dramatic moments is provided in the story, "For His Brother's Honor."

TWENTY-NINTH INSTALLMENT.

Martha half reclined in the rear seat of the big car, her head upon Jerry Breen's shoulder. Pythias occupied one of the folding seats, and Damon drove with Richard Lane by his side. It was Pythias who had shown surprising understanding when, as they were leaving Miss Patty's, he had asked Martha gently if she did not want her friend.

"Yes . . . Yes . . ." Martha said. Until then she had hardly spoken, but had rested with buried face on one of Miss Patty's divans. She was numb, almost insentient. Shock had fallen upon her, agony upon agony, until the total of them had become greater than she could sustain. The world, which had been threatening to crumble, lay in dreadful ruins about her feet . . . She had witnessed it in all its horrors, the death itself had not appalled her. She had not known Colburn nor been concerned in any way with the events that caused the tragedy. Only as a threatened spectator, innocent in fact, did that matter trouble her. She had never felt sorrow for the man; it was only as his death might drag her into blasting publicity that it touched her at all.

But here was a thing vastly different . . . She did not know what had happened before she found herself standing in that door in the darkness, before the lights appeared and she saw Mortimer Blade in that awful position surrounded by her family and Richard Lane. One of them must have fired the shot, she knew that. Those boys whom she loved for all her waywardness and rashness and denial of the sanctity of family ties. Of if not a brother, then her father.

Or else the man, of all the men she had encountered on her troubled voyage into the world, who had given her decent unselfish love! And the fault was hers! She was to blame! Because of her one of her hands was dipped in blood!

Dimly she remembered Richard Lane's voice as it claimed the guilt. She was not sure of this, not certain if it were not a part of the malign nightmare. And she dared not ask.

"Where are we going?" she asked faintly.

"Home," said Pythias. She sighed. Somehow there was comfort in that word. Home! The sound of it was healing—as if some kindly hand had touched her wounds with soothing unguent. Once more she closed her eyes and was silent.

She was grateful for them. It seemed as if she could not endure unless some protecting, sympathetic arms were about her. Independence was gone; recklessness, carelessness, the craving for false liberty were quenched. If she could have put into words the dull yearning of her heart, she would have pleaded for refuge and for shelter—for home!

Richard Lane sat rigid beside Damon. "Shall I come?" she had asked.

"Better," said Damon. "Remember," he said, "whatever happens, I shot him."

"You're a good egg," said Damon. "Climb in."

And so, an hour after Mortimer Blade had been carried into the Bundy house, Martha entered it again after her restless foray into a world where she had found got liberty but license. Her father met her at the door, and she passed from Jerry's arms into his.

"Marty," he said gently. "Home again. . . Where you belong."

"Yes," she said, "yes."

"How's the candidate?" asked Damon.

"Doc's with him," said Bundy. Pythias held out his hand with thumb down and lifted his eyes questioningly. Mr. Bundy shook his head.

"Doc says he'll do," he said. Martha lifted her face. "He's not dead?" she asked.

"And won't be," said Mr. Bundy; whereupon she commenced to cry softly.

"Your bed's ready, honey," said her father, and with Jerry Breen they went up the stairs to that pleasant room which had been Martha's since childhood. Presently he returned.

"So far, so good," he said tersely. "Let's inventory," suggested Theron, and so the five of them and Richard Lane sat around the big table in the dining room where Bundy family councils always were held.

"He'll live," said Mr. Bundy. "Doc says we'll have him on our hands maybe six weeks," said Gelon. "Good rooster, Doc," said Theron. "Never balked."

"He helped every one of you in," said Mr. Bundy. "He's almost one of us."

"Take some explaining if Blade should die," said Pythias. "A friend's a friend," said Mr. Bundy. "He's taking the chance with his eyes open."

"The difficulty," observed Gelon, "will be Blade's disappearance."

"Have to be accounted for," said Theron. "Can't have the hunt up."

"I'll attend to that," said Richard Lane wearily. "I'll tell my father . . . tell him I shot Mortimer."

"If it comes to that," said Bundy, "we all shot him. Don't be a fool, young man. This is a Bundy affair."

"I'm responsible," Richard said stubbornly. "It's a Blade affair—and I'm a Blade again."

"Poor kid," said Damon; "she must have gone through hell!"

"We'll have to wait," said Theron. "Mortimer's well again before we pay off the debts."

"Nothing to do now but sit tight," said Gelon.

"So," said Pythias sensibly, "let's go to bed."

It was 9 o'clock next morning and the six men sat at breakfast when a servant announced there was a man at the door. "He says, Mr. Bundy, he's got to see you—and his name is Tom."

Mr. Bundy frowned. "That's the man from the speak-easy," he said. "Bring him here," said Damon, and the rest nodded approval. The servant returned with Tom, who stood just within the door.

"How," he asked without preliminary, "is he? I've got to know that first."

"He'll live. Conscious," said Mr. Bundy.

"Tom expelled a breath. 'Gosh, that's good!'" he said.

"Wait," said Mr. Bundy. "How came my daughter in your place? What was she doing there—dressed as she was?"

"Yes," said Tom. "That comes first . . . You see, Molly is always coming somebody. Your daughter came one night with this here Mr. Blade. They sat at a table and had some kind of a difference. Then Miss Bundy got up and walked back to where Molly and me was at the bar. You see, kind of broke down and got all most hysterical like. And so Molly got her undressed and to bed, and kept her there because she wasn't fit to go away alone."

"That's the truth?" demanded Richard Lane hoarsely.

Tom turned his blue eyes upon the young man. "When I talk," he said, "it's generally the truth."

"I beg your pardon," said Richard. "Did Blade know she was there?"

"I don't figger he did. Last night was the first time he come back," said Tom.

Mr. Bundy smiled. It was the first smile to touch his face for days. "You bring good news," he said.

"You folks," said Tom, "figgered she done it—your daughter. On account of her appearin' that way, and the flashlight and gun and all. He paused, and there appeared in his eyes a troubled, sorrowful look. "You see," he said, "Molly and me worked for Miss Patty and her father before her. And we kind of had to stick to her when the hard luck come. It was our savings started Miss Patty's place."

"Yes," said Mr. Bundy. "She ain't what she was once," said Tom, with some embarrassment. "Allus needed lookin' after, but, though we kind of kept it from ourselves—Molly and me—she got to foolin' with drugs and sich. And she grew undependable like."

Mr. Bundy nodded sympathetically. "But," said Tom, "I guess she was pretty fond of us all. That's why she done it."

"Why she did what?" asked Mr. Bundy.

"Shot this here Mr. Blade," said Tom. "Of all them Richard Lane was the only one to spring to his feet, his face working. 'What?' he cried. 'What's that?' The Bundys counted themselves by looking from one to the other, but quite another expression than they had worn crept gently over their faces."

"Saw what?"

"That this here Blade was after our Katie," said Tom. "And last night Miss Patty, him kiss her. So, not bein' herself and just able to reason clear, she got it into her poor head there was just one way to save Katie, see? And she went about it kind of cunning. She crept down with that gat and the light and throwed off the master switch. And then she shot him and slipped out and

BROKER'S LOAN REARMS PEAKS WITH $33,000,000, RISE

RESERVE REPORT EXPLAINS RECORD

Washington, August 22.—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers by New York Federal Reserve member banks, which the federal reserve board has sought to restrain since last February, went to another high record for the week ended yesterday.

The loans reported for the week aggregated $65,000,000, an increase of $13,000,000 over the preceding week and $65,000,000 over the previous high record, established on August 7. The loans were $1,884,000,000 over the total of $4,201,000,000 reported for the week ended August 22, 1928.

The banks themselves loaned $39,000,000 less and the out-of-town banks $25,000,000 less last week, but the money loaned by corporations and individuals, which the federal reserve board in its bulletin today said had decreased since last May, went skyward with an increase of $194,000,000.

The federal reserve bulletin said the decrease of lending by corporations and individuals was causing the banks to lend more for stock exchange transactions, which was bringing about an increase in demand deposits.

Combined net profits of banks that are members of the federal reserve system for the first six months of the last six months of the 1928 calendar year, making their net return on capital funds 8.6 per cent for the period.

Announced in Review.

This was announced today in the monthly review by the federal reserve bulletin, which also said in the first six months of the year the combined net profits returned 9.3 per cent and made the total profits for the year $250,000,000, or nearly $90,000,000 more than in 1927. The return for the year netted the banks 8.96 per cent, or 30 per cent higher than the preceding year, despite the fact, the board said, that the volume of capital funds in 1928 was $460,000,000 larger than in 1927.

Under the capital funds was included the capital of the banks, surplus, and undivided profits, including reserves for dividends and contingencies and excluding reserves for interest, taxes and other expenses accrued.

In reviewing the general financial situation, the board said the growth in security loans from May until July 31 amounted to $575,000,000 and the growth in all other loans $180,000,000. There was a decrease in investments of $250,000,000.

Growth Reported.

The growth in security loans, the board continued, reflected an increase in loans to brokers and dealers chiefly by banks in New York city for their own account and for the account of other domestic banks. Loans for the account of others, including corporations and individuals, to dealers were found to have reached the high point in the latter part of July while

Arbitrators Hold Cotton Mill Employers Justified in Reduction.

Manchester, England, August 22.—(P)—The arbitration court in the Lancashire cotton mills wage dispute today gave an award sustaining the employers' demand for reduction but allowing only about one-half of the per cent asked.

Only two days of investigation wa make up its collective mind. It was thought that the compromise would be accepted by both sides since, after a tie-up of the mills lasting three weeks, both the labor union and employers had agreed to arbitration of the controversy.

The mill owners had demanded a reduction of 25 per cent of the standard hard piece price list which would have meant a reduction of 12 1-2 per cent on the current rates of wages paid to more than 500,000 workers. The court awarded a 12 1-2 reduction on the standard list which is about 6.4 per cent reduction in actual wages.

The court was unanimous in deciding. "In respect to those classes of work-people covered by the operative reduction of the standard piece price list of wages shall be effective, which in the case of operatives who are presently paid 95 per cent on the standard list will mean a reduction of 6.4 per cent on their current wages. A similar reduction of 12 1-2 per cent shall be made from other lists which vary from 95 per cent and above. The equivalent reduction in wages of all operatives who are not paid by piece price lists.

The reduced rates come into operation after making up day in the week ending September 7 and shall be paid on pay day of the week ending September 14.

JADWIN PAY QUESTION STIRS ARMY RANKS

Only Lieutenant-General Living, Decision on Matter Asked.

Washington, August 22.—(AP)—Unquestionably Edgar Jadwin, retired chief of army engineers, is the only living American to hold the rank of lieutenant general, but the question has arisen whether he has the right to receive the pay of that grade.

Major General Roderick L. Carmichael, chief of army finance, is puzzled over the problem, which has been projected by Jadwin's promotion upon his retirement, and has asked Comptroller General McCall for a decision on the question.

Jadwin was promoted from major general to lieutenant general upon his retirement August 7 under a 1915 congressional act permitting officers who served in the construction of the Panama canal to be elevated to the next grade after completing their active service.

In the event of a decision against his receiving the rank's pay, army officers expressed the belief that Jadwin might have to seek congressional action to obtain it.

In casting about for a successor to General Jadwin, chief of army engineers, President Hoover is believed to be seeking a comparatively young officer who will not reach retirement age at least until the Mississippi river flood control projects is well under way.

Suggestions that the chief executive might call into active service a reserve army engineer given little credence by some of his advisers, who seem to be satisfied that he will take a regular army engineer and one already thoroughly familiar with the Mississippi river and other contemplated waterway improvements.

Among those whose names are mentioned in connection with the appointment are Brigadier General Herbert Deakyne, acting chief; Colonel William J. Barden, of Governors Island, New York; Colonel George B. Pillsbury, who is stationed in Pennsylvania; and Colonel William E. Wooten, formerly a member of the Mississippi river commission.

Contracts have been let for 14 two-motored monoplanes to operate on the line, Ferris said. The planes will carry 20 passengers and a crew of three. Departure here will be at 8 a. m. and the arrival at Havana, 1,241 miles away, will be at 7 p. m.

Five railroads have entered negotiations to act as feeders along the route, Ferris said. Stops will be made at Cincinnati, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Tampa and Key West.

Electrician's Auto Trouble, POLICE EXONERATED IN SLAYING OF TWO

GOVERNOR GRANTS 30-DAY RESPITE, Respite, Save Doomed Negro

Milledgeville, Ga., August 22.—(AP)—Automobile trouble which delayed the arrival of an electrician and a reconsidered decision by the prison commission and Governor Hardman today saved Nedding Reed, Clarke county negro, from death in the electric chair a scant 20 minutes before the time set for his execution.

A thirty-day respite was granted the condemned murderer by the governor at the request of the prison commission after Tom Shackelford, Athens attorney, had asked for time to present new evidence in the case.

The prison commission yesterday declined to recommend clemency for the negro and preparations were begun to carry out the death sentence.

The execution was held up, however, for the arrival of the Atlanta man who was to supervise the execution.

As the man, whose name was not disclosed, reached the prison farm the telephone of the superintendent, B. H. Dunaway, rang and the governor's secretary transmitted to him word of the respite.

Mr. Dunaway recalled that it was the first reprieve to be received within an hour of the execution since several years ago when Earl Walker, a state highway engineer, was given a stay by Governor Walker, which was conveyed to the superintendent over the telephone after George had begun the walk to the electric chair.
